Bar Pays Its Tributes to Late Judge

Supreme Court Is Scene of Honor for John T. Loughran, Former Appeals Chief

"The highest reward that can come to a lawyer is the esteem of his professional brethren."

These words, written by the late Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, were quoted today by Harry H. Flemming as members of the Ulster County Bar Association paid tribute to the late John T. Loughran, chief judge of the Court of Appeals.

That Judge Loughran was held in the highest esteem by the legal profession was evident by the number of sincere tributes read and ordered placed on the record of state Supreme Court in session here with Justice William Deckelman, presiding.

Judge Loughran died of a heart attack in Kingston on March 31.

In a packed court room this morning, the presiding justice was flanked by Justices Harry E. Schirick and Roscoe V. Elsworth. More than 60 attorneys were in attendance, as well as jurors and others.

The tributes stressed Judge Loughran's human qualities, his kindness, his willingness to help, as well as his judicial fairness and diligence in his work.

Resolution Adopted

A resolution of the Ulster County Bar Association was adopted and ordered spread upon the minutes. Offered by Andrew J. Cook, Sr., as chairman of a resolution committee, it read, in part:

"Whereas, while Judge Loughran will live in history for having been Chief Judge of our highest court, and because of his profound learning and rare talents, he will especially be remembered by his brothers of the Ulster County Bar for his humane qualities; the warmth of his greeting; his gracious manner and bearing and his genial and kindly nature. He knew every member of the Bar personally. His study was always open to us. No matter how grossed he might be in the decision of some important case pending in his court, he would cheerfully welcome our intrusion and favor us with his wise counsel and sound judgment * * *

"He never sought to impress anyone with his importance or the exalted office he graced with such distinction. He was most humble. He loved this community and was never so happy as when meeting his life-long friends on the street or in his chambers in the court house * * *He was deeply religious and attended Mass daily * * *

"Therefore, be it resolved, that we of the Ulster County Bar have been greatly blessed for having known and been privileged to associate with so noble a person as Judge John T. Loughran; that in his passing, the Bench has lost a most learned Judge; the state, one of its great chief judges; this county, its most distinguished citizen, and the Bar its most honored member."

The resolution was signed by Chairman Cook and committee members Henry Klein, John M. Cashin, George F. Kaufman, William A. Kelly and Frederick H. Stang.

Secretary's Tribute

Attorney William A. Kelly, who was Judge Loughran's law secretary for a period of four and a half years, said of him, "One of the very first of his human traits that I learned was his truly gentle kindness."

Other characteristics he mentioned included his "remarkable facility of appreciating whatever a person did for him, no matter how small it was....his ability to concentrate upon the legal problem with which he was dealing.

"He was indeed the answer to every lawyer's prayer. And he should be a model for all judges," Kelly said.

Harry H. Flemming added his tribute that Judge Loughran "was diligent in preparation, thorough in presentation, had the courage of his convictions, and had apparently caught the vision which caused the Hon. James M. Beck to assert that 'work is the greatest moral force in the world.' He loved work, enjoyed it, and was relentless in his devotion to the day's task."

Flemming then quoted from Chief Justice Hughes' tribute to the late George W. Wickersham, in which was the quotation that "the highest reward that can come to a lawyer is the esteem of his professional brethern." Chief Judge Loughran, Flemming said, "had received that esteem in a degree that few have attained."

County Judge John M. Cashin remarked on Judge Loughran's warmth of feeling for his fellow man. Recalling that he had attended St. Joseph's Parochial School with the late chief judge, Cashin stated that Judge Loughran "always was a human being who loved his fellow man . . . and was a gentleman in its highest sense."

Attorney Arthur B. Ewig, who was one of Judge Loughran's students in Fordham Law School, recalled incidents illustrating the

Woman and Child Are Hurt Badly

What Lies Ahead Is Held Vague

BY ELTON C. FAY
(AP) Military Affairs Reporter

Washington, May 11 (AP)—What happens, militarily, if Korean truce talks collapse again? There is no ready answer. Each of the possible courses seems fraught with hazards of one sort or another.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, when awaiting inauguration as President, went to the Far East five months ago to appraise steps that could bring an honorable end to the war.

Since then the U. S., responding to an offer by the Communists, has resumed discussions at Panmunjom. Last Friday Eisenhower and his State and Defense Department advisers got together to discuss the latest Red truce proposals.

What Then?

If they prove unacceptable, what then?

Will the United Nations forces continue to stand where they are, holding a line held for two years? Or turn to an attempt to beat the enemy on the field? Or get out?

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) told an NBC television audience yesterday: "If we do not get a settlement * * * then I think America will take steps which ought to be taken to assure victory."

Eisenhower and his military commanders cannot, by themselves, decide the course. There are the wishes of other allied nations in the Korean war to be considered. And the enemy might have his own ideas.

Continuing to hold on the present battle line can have military disadvantages. Even standing still costs casualties—300 to 600 a week among U. S. forces. And the Reds use the time to reinforce their already forbidding front line structures and extend their defenses far to the rear to contain any UN breakthrough.

Has Disadvantages

But an offensive likewise has disadvantages. Casualty costs can curve sharply upward. In the fall of 1950, when the allied offensive was rolling, U. S. casualties went up to over 3,000 a week—and there were no fixed, strongly fortified positions to

Churchill Asks Study Of Proposal

UN Command Declares Fate of 48,000 Still Is Indefinite—Opens Commons Debate

By GEORGE A. McARTHUR

Panmunjom, May 11 (AP)—Allied truce delegates today asked the Communists to advance a plan for final determination of the fate of war prisoners refusing to return to Red rule.

At today's 53-minute meeting, the UN command said an eight-point Communist proposal for prisoner exchange still left the threat of indefinite captivity hanging over 48,500 North Korean and Chinese Reds.

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr., senior UN delegate, said there was no guarantee that a political conference could settle the prisoner question as the Communists urged.

After the meeting had adjourned until 11 a. m. Tuesday (9 p. m., EST, Monday), Harrison stood in a driving rain outside the crude conference hut and told correspondents that of the barrage of questions he has asked the Reds, only one has been answered satisfactorily.

He recalled they had said a majority vote would decide differences among the five neutrals proposed by the Communists as custodians of prisoners refusing to return home.

Political Conference

The Communists have proposed that a five-nation commission supervise such prisoners for four months. After that period—and after Communist representatives had "explained" things to the soldiers—the fate of those still unwilling to return would be settled by a political conference.

"What then," Harrison asked Monday, "is your further proposal for the ultimate solution of this problem if the political conference cannot arrive at a settlement?"

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red delegate, didn't answer, but stuck to earlier contentions that any such problem could be settled by a political conference.

He prefaced the statement with: "Our side does not acknowledge at all that there are prisoners who illogically refuse repatriation."

The disposition of war prisoners refusing to return home is the last major obstacle to an armistice in the Korean war. The bitter and costly conflict now is nearing the end of its third year.

The UN command has steadfastly refused to budge from its basic principle in prisoner exchange—that no captive shall be sent back to communism against his will.

Speaks in Commons

London, May 11 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill said today the Communist proposal for a truce in Korea "requires sympathetic and patient examination."

Opening a foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons, Churchill, in referring to the Communist proposal, said:

"There is no reason known to me at present to assume that it might not form the basis of agreement, provided always it is put forward by the Communists in a spirit of sincerity."

He pointed out that the United States had borne nineteen twentieths of the cost of the Korean fighting in men and money and said:

"The matter is not one which we have either the right or the responsibility to decide, but it is out duty, without separating ourselves from our great ally, to express our opinion frankly and plainly to them as occasion offers.

Viet Nam Premier Protests Devalued Indochina Money

Van Tam Says Government Not Consulted by French; Piaster Is 10 Francs

Saigon, Indochina, May 11 (AP)—Viet Nam Premier Nguyen Van Tam protested to the French today over the devaluation of the Indochinese piaster, charging his government had not been consulted and the currency slash "causes us grave internal difficulties."

France yesterday reduced the value of the piaster from 17 francs (4.9 cents) to 10 francs (2.9 cents) in an effort to smash a black market currency racket involving piasters, francs and dollars which cost France an estimated 250 million dollars yearly.

"The first result of the devaluation of the piaster will be an immediate rising of prices," Tam told a press conference after a cabinet meeting. He said he had fired off an official complaint to Jean Letourneau, French Resident Minister.

Sees Halt Temporary

Tam said the devaluation step would stop the money black market only temporarily for "before long the real value of the piaster will fall to four or five francs and that will open the way to new possibilities for trafficking."

There was an air of panic in business and commercial circles here today, with little or no transactions being made. Police cracked down on at least two food stores, one of which refused to sell anything. The other had raised its prices 20 per cent.

The French government said the devaluation had been carried out under the Pau treaty with the associated Indochinese states—Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia. This permits France to modify the currency rate after consultation with the three states. The French said they had contacted the native governments shortly before the decision was made. Obviously, Tam thought the notice had been too short.

Fabulous Profits

The wide difference between the previous official value of the piastor and its worth of eight francs on the black market has allowed many persons to make fabulous profits through currency purchases and transfer to France. With francs from Paris, traders bought piasters in the black market, then purchased francs at the official rate for transfer back to Paris.

Dollars smuggled in were sold on the black market for 50 piasters each. The piasters then were transferred back to Paris at 17 francs each. The profit was more than 100 per cent on each type of transaction.

Critics charged that many of the dollars smuggled in found their way into hands of the Communist-led Vietminh rebels, who purchased arms for their fight against the French.

Mrs. Carthay, Son Are in Hospital After Auto Crash

Mrs. Edith Carthay, 27, of Kerhonkson, was seriously injured when the car in which she was riding left the road, went over an embankment and struck a tree near Spring Glen at about 5 p. m. Sunday, and one of her three children in the car was reported badly hurt.

State police at Ellenville said Mrs. Carthay was pinned in the car and portions were cut away to release her. Her condition was reported as "critical" at Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, where she is being treated for a severe concussion, multiple fractures of the skull, lacerations of an arm and the face, and a fractured jaw.

Children in Car

A passing motorist discovered the car and in it with Mrs. Carthay were her three children, George 6, who was taken to the Ellenville Hospital for treatment of severe lacerations of the mouth and chin and a slight concussion, and John, 4½, and Jili, 2½, who were taken to their home.

Police said the cause of the mishap was undetermined.

4,233 in Ulster Receive Benefits Of Old-Age Bill

$175,555 Paid Monthly to 2,532 as Retired Wage Earners, State Report Shows

Monthly payments under the Federal old-age and survivors insurance go to 4,233 people in Ulster county, Joseph B. O'Connor, regional director for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, reported today. These individuals of whom 2,532 are retired wage earners, receive a total of $175,555 per month. This figure is constantly increasing, he said, and the number is expected to exceed 5,000 by the end of 1953.

Monthly payments were going to 573,129 people in the State of New York at the end of 1952. Total payments in New York during 1952 amounted to $283,179,000 a 17 per cent increase over 1951.

Law Accounts for Hike

The rise in total payments reflected increases in the number of retired people and their dependents, surviving widows, children and other dependents, and increases during 1952 in the amount of individual payments, O'Connor said. The 1952 amendments to the social security law accounted for much of the increase in benefit rates.

Persons 65 or over in New York receiving benefits at the end of 1952 numbered 475,374, an increase of 15 per cent over 1951. Those over 65 who received payments were retired workers, wives, dependent husbands, widows, dependent widowers, and parents.

CAP Pilot Dies, Another Hurt in Search for Pair

Croton, N. Y., May 11 (AP)—A civil air patrol pilot was killed and another injured yesterday while making a search for two persons believed drowned in the Hudson River.

The dead pilot was identified as Lt. George Brown, 14 Kingston Road, North Tarrytown.

Injured was Lt. Col. John Shetron of White Plains, commanding officer of Westchester county's CAP wing.

The two had searched the river for a man and boy believed lost near Verplanck.

They landed at Croton Air Park a one-lane strip that juts out into Croton Reservoir.

Right after taking off again, the plane ran into trees near the air strip and crashed at the edge of the reservoir.

Balanced Budget Out of Question; 1954 Is Doubtful

$7,300,000 Deficit Seen For Current Year, 1½ Billion More Than HST Forecast

Washington, May 11 (AP)—With hope officially abandoned for a balanced budget now, the government may borrow a well-known line from the Brooklyn Dodgers: Just wait 'til next year.

But simple arithmetic showed today that balancing spending with revenue may be painfully difficult even for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1954—14 months away.

Red ink was the underscoring in a look at government finances released yesterday by the staff of the Senate-House Committee on Internal Revenue.

For the current year, ending June 30, the committee forecast a deficit of $7,300,000,000—almost 1½ billion more than former President Truman estimated in his budget last January.

Still Deep in Red

For the year starting July 1, the first full fiscal year of the Eisenhower administration, the committee foresaw a deficit of almost six billion dollars. It assumed Eisenhower would cut five billions from spending planned by Truman, for an outlay of 73½ billion.

That still would keep the government deep in the red. A partial reason is that present tax laws are not bringing in as much revenue as was expected.

Sen. Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader, was less optimistic than the committee staff. In a weekend interview, he predicted that "unless changes are made" in spending plans, the deficit in the coming fiscal year will be from nine to 11 billion dollars. Truman, recommending more spending than the Eisenhower administration now plans, had figured the deficit at $9,900,000,000.

No one has yet made any official estimates on the budget for the year beginning July 1, 1954 but arithmetic based on the Senate-House committee staff survey at least shows the scope of Eisenhower's budget balancing problem.

The joker in the government's financial deck is a series of automatic tax cuts, written into present laws by a Democratic congress and a Democratic administration. Eisenhower inherits the loss of revenue, but perhaps little of the credit for the reduction.

Tremendous Job Ahead

If present estimated income levels continue, these cuts would reduce revenue and additional six billion dollars for the year beginning July 1, 1954—to a level of about 61½ billion dollars below next year's estimated outlay of 73½ billion.

But already there is pressure in Congress to enact tax cuts even beyond those already fixed by law. With 1954 an election year, this pressure is certain to mount. Any such move would increase still further the spending cuts necessary to balance the budget for 1954-55.

New York Has 82

New York, May 11 (AP)—The temperature bounced up to 82 degrees at noon today, giving the metropolitan area its warmest day of the year. The high reading came after a rapid 16-degree climb in three hours. It was the second balmy day in a row for New York city, whose previous warm mark for 1953 came yesterday when the temperature rose to 80. The weather bureau said cooler weather is likely tonight.

Nine Persons Are Killed, More Than 100 Are Injured

Tornadoes Strike in Midwestern States With Damage High in Millions

Minneapolis, May 11 (AP)—Swirling black tornado funnels blasted a path of destruction across parts of five midwest states and Arkansas over the weekend, leaving nine persons dead, more than 100 injured and widespread property damage.

Areas hit were southern Minnesota, western Wisconsin, southeastern Nebraska, northcentral Iowa, westcentral Arkansas and southeastern Kansas.

Property damage is expected to total several million dollars.

Six of the Minnesota victims, Ariseto Martinez, 29, and his family, died when the tarpaper and clapboard house in which a Spanish-speaking migrant farm worker from Texas and his family were quartered on an asparagus farm near Hollandale was destroyed.

Their bodies were hurled 75 feet onto a road early Sunday evening when the funnel hit the flimsy structure that had housed prisoners of war during the Second World War. Neighbors said the house appeared to "explode from within." No other injuries were reported on the farm.

Other Minnesota Victims

The other Minnesota victims were Otto Jeche, about 60, crushed to death when his barn caved in on his farm near Wykoff and the two-year-old daughter of Mrs. Dorothy MacDonald, 29, of rural Rochester, Minn.

The Wisconsin victim was Peter Novak, fatally injured when a barn was blown down on his farm near Amery. Several others were reported injured when high winds not definitely identified as tornadoes hit the western part of Wisconsin. The damage was centered in Eau Claire, Chippewa, Polk and St. Croix counties.

The first of the weekend tornadoes hit Saturday night at Hebron, a community of 2,000 in southeastern Nebraska. Observers said it was a "miracle" that no one was killed as the storm wrecked two-thirds of the town's buildings. Sixty-nine persons were injured, at least 18 of them seriously.

Hebron was still without gas and had only emergency electric power Sunday night.

Iowa Is Affected

At least five persons were injured and several farms were damaged late Sunday when a tornado cut a path 35 miles long through Cerro Gordo and Worth counties in north central Iowa.

Gunder Felland, 63, who farms near Hanlontown, said he herded his family into the basement when he saw the storm coming. "Then I saw the house lift off the foundation about a foot," he added, "before it settled back down, a little off center. When I went out later and looked, two big trees

Company M Left for War 55 Years Ago; Five Still in City

Fifty-five years ago this month Company M of the first New York volunteer regiment left Kingston for the Pacific theater of the Spanish-American War.

Today, only a handful of the old company, part of a volunteer army of 555,000 men, survives. Roswell Coles, adjutant and quartermaster of Colonial Camp 75, United Spanish War Veterans, lists only five survivors of the company presently residing in Kingston. These are David Terry, who served as first lieutenant when the company was organized in 1898, F. W. Thompson, George A. Winter, J. Allen Wood and Coles.

On February 15, 1898, the Battleship Maine was sunk in Havana harbor during a visit with the loss of 258 officers and men. An American court of inquiry demanded reconstruction of the independence of Cuba and the President directed the use of land and naval forces to carry this into effect. Spanish authorities in Cuba declined and war was declared April 21, 1898.

Company M, 104 men strong, crossed the Rhinebeck Ferry and entrained May 2, 1898, for Camp Black between Hempstead and Garden City, L. I. Here the company remained until June 7 where it was encamped alongside the 71st Regiment. On May 20 the company was mustered into service and placed under the command of Gen. Thomas H. Barber under orders to go to Cuba.

Sent to Hawaii

Two companies broke out with the measles, however, and the whole regiment was quarantined and the 71st Regt. was dispatched instead.

Dewey, Legislators Talk On Crime Group's Report

Albany, May 11 (AP)—Gov. Dewey, legislative leaders and law enforcement officials confer today on the State Crime Commission's far-reaching legislative program to fight crime and political corruption.

The commission's report, restating the four-member body's demand for a permanent state crime agency, was made public last night by Dewey's office.

It also called for state-wide minimum standards for local police, a uniform jury system for all counties outside New York city, a larger state police force and expansion of the governor's power to remove local officials for misconduct in office.

The anti-crime conference in the executive chamber this afternoon was called by Dewey as a prelude to the coming special session of the Legislature.

Invited were officials of interested state departments, legislative leaders of both major political parties and representatives of state and local judiciaries and police.

The report was the commission's third since it was created by Gov. Dewey two years ago. A fourth—and final—report on New York's waterfront is due by fall.

The commission's recommendations are expected to touch off a strenuous battle at the special session that Dewey is expected to call within the next four weeks.

Tremendous Job Ahead

If present estimated income levels continue, these cuts would reduce revenue and additional six billion dollars for the year beginning July 1, 1954—to a level of about 61½ billion dollars below next year's estimated outlay of 73½ billion.

But already there is pressure in Congress to enact tax cuts even beyond those already fixed by law. With 1954 an election year, this pressure is certain to mount. Any such move would increase still further the spending cuts necessary to balance the budget for 1954-55.

New York Has 82

New York, May 11 (AP)—The temperature bounced up to 82 degrees at noon today, giving the metropolitan area its warmest day of the year. The high reading came after a rapid 16-degree climb in three hours. It was the second balmy day in a row for New York city, whose previous warm mark for 1953 came yesterday when the temperature rose to 80. The weather bureau said cooler weather is likely tonight.

38 Men Feared Lost

Toronto, May 11 (AP)—The Canadian Press says the American lake freighter Henry Steinbrenner sank off Isle Royale today. It quotes coast guardsmen as saying the freighter sank with all hands, and added there were 38 men aboard.

Nine Persons Are Killed, More Than 100 Are Injured

Tornadoes Strike in Midwestern States With Damage High in Millions

Minneapolis, May 11 (AP)—Swirling black tornado funnels blasted a path of destruction across parts of five midwest states and Arkansas over the weekend, leaving nine persons dead, more than 100 injured and widespread property damage.

Areas hit were southern Minnesota, western Wisconsin, southeastern Nebraska, northcentral Iowa, westcentral Arkansas and southeastern Kansas.

Property damage is expected to total several million dollars.

Six of the Minnesota victims, Ariseto Martinez, 29, and his family, died when the tarpaper and clapboard house in which a Spanish-speaking migrant farm worker from Texas and his family were quartered on an asparagus farm near Hollandale was destroyed.

Their bodies were hurled 75 feet onto a road early Sunday evening when the funnel hit the flimsy structure that had housed prisoners of war during the Second World War. Neighbors said the house appeared to "explode from within." No other injuries were reported on the farm.

Other Minnesota Victims

The other Minnesota victims were Otto Jeche, about 60, crushed to death when his barn caved in on his farm near Wykoff and the two-year-old daughter of Mrs. Dorothy MacDonald, 29, of rural Rochester, Minn.

The Wisconsin victim was Peter Novak, fatally injured when a barn was blown down on his farm near Amery. Several others were reported injured when high winds not definitely identified as tornadoes hit the western part of Wisconsin. The damage was centered in Eau Claire, Chippewa, Polk and St. Croix counties.

The first of the weekend tornadoes hit Saturday night at Hebron, a community of 2,000 in southeastern Nebraska. Observers said it was a "miracle" that no one was killed as the storm wrecked two-thirds of the town's buildings. Sixty-nine persons were injured, at least 18 of them seriously.

Hebron was still without gas and had only emergency electric power Sunday night.

Iowa Is Affected

At least five persons were injured and several farms were damaged late Sunday when a tornado cut a path 35 miles long through Cerro Gordo and Worth counties in north central Iowa.

Gunder Felland, 63, who farms near Hanlontown, said he herded his family into the basement when he saw the storm coming. "Then I saw the house lift off the foundation about a foot," he added, "before it settled back down, a little off center. When I went out later and looked, two big trees

Fifty-five years ago this month Company M of the first New York volunteer regiment left Kingston for the Pacific theater of the Spanish-American War.

Today, only a handful of the old company, part of a volunteer army of 555,000 men, survives. Roswell Coles, adjutant and quartermaster of Colonial Camp 75, United Spanish War Veterans, lists only five survivors of the company presently residing in Kingston. These are David Terry, who served as first lieutenant when the company was organized in 1898, F. W. Thompson, George A. Winter, J. Allen Wood and Coles.

On February 15, 1898, the Battleship Maine was sunk in Havana harbor during a visit with the loss of 258 officers and men. An American court of inquiry demanded reconstruction of the independence of Cuba and the President directed the use of land and naval forces to carry this into effect. Spanish authorities in Cuba declined and war was declared April 21, 1898.

Company M, 104 men strong, crossed the Rhinebeck Ferry and entrained May 2, 1898, for Camp Black between Hempstead and Garden City, L. I. Here the company remained until June 7 where it was encamped alongside the 71st Regiment. On May 20 the company was mustered into service and placed under the command of Gen. Thomas H. Barber under orders to go to Cuba.

Sent to Hawaii

Two companies broke out with the measles, however, and the whole regiment was quarantined and the 71st Regt. was dispatched instead.

In early July the regiment was split into units and Company M

Viet Nam Premier Protests Devalued Indochina Money

Van Tam Says Government Not Consulted by French; Piaster Is 10 Francs

Saigon, Indochina, May 11 (AP)—Viet Nam Premier Nguyen Van Tam protested to the French today over the devaluation of the Indochinese piaster, charging his government had not been consulted and the currency slash "causes us grave internal difficulties."

France yesterday reduced the value of the piaster from 17 francs (4.9 cents) to 10 francs (2.9 cents) in an effort to smash a black market currency racket involving piasters, francs and dollars which cost France an estimated 250 million dollars yearly.

"The first result of the devaluation of the piaster will be an immediate rising of prices," Tam told a press conference after a cabinet meeting. He said he had fired off an official complaint to Jean Letourneau, French Resident Minister.

Sees Halt Temporary

Tam said the devaluation step would stop the money black market only temporarily for "before long the real value of the piaster will fall to four or five francs and that will open the way to new possibilities for trafficking."

There was an air of panic in business and commercial circles here today, with little or no transactions being made. Police cracked down on at least two food stores, one of which refused to sell anything. The other had raised its prices 20 per cent.

The French government said the devaluation had been carried out under the Pau treaty with the associated Indochinese states —Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia. This permits France to modify the currency rate after consultation with the three states. The French said they had contacted the native governments shortly before the decision was made. Obviously, Tam thought the notice had been too short.

Fabulous Profits

The wide difference between the previous official value of the piastor and its worth of eight francs on the black market has allowed many persons to make fabulous profits through currency purchases and transfer to France. With francs from Paris, traders bought piasters in the black market, then purchased francs at the official rate for transfer back to Paris.

Dollars smuggled in were sold on the black market for 50 piasters each. The piasters then were transferred back to Paris at 17 francs each. The profit was more than 100 per cent on each type of transaction.

Critics charged that many of the dollars smuggled in found their way into hands of the Communist-led Vietminh rebels, who purchased arms for their fight against the French.

London, May 11 (AP)—Jacob Malik arrived here today to take up his post as the Soviet Union's new ambasador to Britain. Malik supplants Andrei A. Gromyko, now a Soviet deputy foreign minister. Woman and Child Are Hurt Badly

Mrs. Carthay, Son Are in Hospital After Auto Crash

Mrs. Edith Carthay, 27, of Kerhonkson, was seriously injured when the car in which she was riding left the road, went over an embankment and struck a tree near Spring Glen at about 5 p. m. Sunday, and one of her three children in the car was reported badly hurt.

State police at Ellenville said Mrs. Carthay was pinned in the car and portions were cut away to release her. Her condition was reported as "critical" at Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, where she is being treated for a severe concussion, multiple fractures of the skull, lacerations of an arm and the face, and a fractured jaw.

Children in Car

A passing motorist discovered the car and in it with Mrs. Carthay were her three children, George 6, who was taken to the Ellenville Hospital for treatment of severe lacerations of the mouth and chin and a slight concussion, and John, 4½, and Jili, 2½, who were taken to their home.

Police said the cause of the mishap was undetermined.

4,233 in Ulster Receive Benefits Of Old-Age Bill

$175,555 Paid Monthly to 2,532 as Retired Wage Earners, State Report Shows

Monthly payments under the Federal old-age and survivors insurance go to 4,233 people in Ulster county, Joseph B. O'Connor, regional director for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, reported today. These individuals of whom 2,532 are retired wage earners, receive a total of $175,555 per month. This figure is constantly increasing, he said, and the number is expected to exceed 5,000 by the end of 1953.

Monthly payments were going to 573,129 people in the State of New York at the end of 1952. Total payments in New York during 1952 amounted to $283,179,000 a 17 per cent increase over 1951.

Law Accounts for Hike

The rise in total payments reflected increases in the number of retired people and their dependents, surviving widows, children and other dependents, and increases during 1952 in the amount of individual payments, O'Connor said. The 1952 amendments to the social security law accounted for much of the increase in benefit rates.

Persons 65 or over in New York receiving benefits at the end of 1952 numbered 475,374, an increase of 15 per cent over 1951. Those over 65 who received payments were retired workers, wives, dependent husbands, widows, dependent widowers, and parents.

What Lies Ahead Is Held Vague

BY ELTON C. FAY
(AP) Military Affairs Reporter

Washington, May 11 (AP)—What happens, militarily, if Korean truce talks collapse again? There is no ready answer. Each of the possible courses seems fraught with hazards of one sort or another.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, when awaiting inauguration as President, went to the Far East five months ago to appraise steps that could bring an honorable end to the war.

Since then the U. S., responding to an offer by the Communists, has resumed discussions at Panmunjom. Last Friday Eisenhower and his State and Defense Department advisers got together to discuss the latest Red truce proposals.

What Then?

If they prove unacceptable, what then?

Will the United Nations forces continue to stand where they are, holding a line held for two years? Or turn to an attempt to beat the enemy on the field? Or get out?

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) told an NBC television audience yesterday: "If we do not get a settlement * * * then I think America will take steps which ought to be taken to assure victory."

Eisenhower and his military commanders cannot, by themselves, decide the course. There are the wishes of other allied nations in the Korean war to be considered. And the enemy might have his own ideas.

Continuing to hold on the present battle line can have military disadvantages. Even standing still costs casualties—300 to 600 a week among U. S. forces. And the Reds use the time to reinforce their already forbidding front line structures and extend their defenses far to the rear to contain any UN breakthrough.

Has Disadvantages

But an offensive likewise has disadvantages. Casualty costs can curve sharply upward. In the fall of 1950, when the allied offensive was rolling, U. S. casualties went up to over 3,000 a week—and there were no fixed, strongly fortified positions to

CAP Pilot Dies, Another Hurt in Search for Pair

Croton, N. Y., May 11 (AP)—A civil air patrol pilot was killed and another injured yesterday while making a search for two persons believed drowned in the Hudson River.

The dead pilot was identified as Lt. George Brown, 14 Kingston Road, North Tarrytown.

Injured was Lt. Col. John Shetron of White Plains, commanding officer of Westchester county's CAP wing.

The two had searched the river for a man and boy believed lost near Verplanck.

They landed at Croton Air Park a one-lane strip that juts out into Croton Reservoir.

Right after taking off again, the plane ran into trees near the air strip and crashed at the edge of the reservoir.

UN Command Declares Fate of 48,000 Still Is Indefinite—Opens Commons Debate

By GEORGE A. McARTHUR

Panmunjom, May 11 (AP)—Allied truce delegates today asked the Communists to advance a plan for final determination of the fate of war prisoners refusing to return to Red rule.

At today's 53-minute meeting, the UN command said an eight-point Communist proposal for prisoner exchange still left the threat of indefinite captivity hanging over 48,500 North Korean and Chinese Reds.

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr., senior UN delegate, said there was no guarantee that a political conference could settle the prisoner question as the Communists urged.

After the meeting had adjourned until 11 a. m. Tuesday (9 p. m., EST, Monday), Harrison stood in a driving rain outside the crude conference hut and told correspondents that of the barrage of questions he has asked the Reds, only one has been answered satisfactorily.

He recalled they had said a majority vote would decide differences among the five neutrals proposed by the Communists as custodians of prisoners refusing to return home.

Political Conference

The Communists have proposed that a five-nation commission supervise such prisoners for four months. After that period—and after Communist representatives had "explained" things to the soldiers—the fate of those still unwilling to return would be settled by a political conference.

"What then," Harrison asked Monday, "is your further proposal for the ultimate solution of this problem if the political conference cannot arrive at a settlement?"

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red delegate, didn't answer, but stuck to earlier contentions that any such problem could be settled by a political conference.

He prefaced the statement with: "Our side does not acknowledge at all that there are prisoners who illogically refuse repatriation."

The disposition of war prisoners refusing to return home is the last major obstacle to an armistice in the Korean war. The bitter and costly conflict now is nearing the end of its third year.

The UN command has steadfastly refused to budge from its basic principle in prisoner exchange—that no captive shall be sent back to communism against his will.

Speaks in Commons

London, May 11 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill said today the Communist proposal for a truce in Korea "requires sympathetic and patient examination."

Opening a foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons, Churchill, in referring to the Communist proposal, said:

"There is no reason known to me at present to assume that it might not form the basis of agreement, provided always it is put forward by the Communists in a spirit of sincerity."

He pointed out that the United States had borne nineteen twentieths of the cost of the Korean fighting in men and money and said:

"The matter is not one which we have either the right or the responsibility to decide, but it is out duty, without separating ourselves from our great ally, to express our opinion frankly and plainly to them as occasion offers.

Urges Buildup of Forces

Hoboken, N. J., May 11 (AP)—Lt. Gen. B.R.P.F. Hasselman, chief of the general staff of The Netherlands army, today urged strengthening of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Europe. "You never can tell when the cold war will turn into a hot war," he said. Gen. Hasselman arrived aboard the liner Noordam on his first visit to the United States. He expects to go to West Point, N. Y., tomorrow.

Dewey, Legislators Talk On Crime Group's Report

Albany, May 11 (AP)—Gov. Dewey, legislative leaders and law enforcement officials confer today on the State Crime Commission's far-reaching legislative program to fight crime and political corruption.

The commission's report, restating the four-member body's demand for a permanent state crime agency, was made public last night by Dewey's office.

It also called for state-wide minimum standards for local police, a uniform jury system for all counties outside New York city, a larger state police force and expansion of the governor's power to remove local officials for misconduct in office.

The anti-crime conference in the executive chamber this afternoon was called by Dewey as a prelude to the coming special session of the Legislature.

Invited were officials of interested state departments, legislative leaders of both major political parties and representatives of state and local judiciaries and police.

The report was the commission's third since it was created by Gov. Dewey two years ago. A fourth—and final—report on New York's waterfront is due by fall.

The commission's recommendations are expected to touch off a strenuous battle at the special session that Dewey is expected to call within the next four weeks.

Some of the agency's recommen-

BETTER DOLLARS

By Harry C. France

A better dollar is on the way. The speed of its arrival will be linked with cold war expenditures. Fighting communism is our country's most expensive activity. Any reduction of expenditure through efficiency or curtailed military operations will usher in a sounder currency.

America's 20-year inflation has been cumulative. The dollar, in terms of gold, was devalued. Then federal deficits were piled on federal deficits. Billions of dollars of paper money were thus created. These events tremendously influenced prices; and rising prices boosted wages, increased costs and lifted tax rates. When prices, wages, costs and taxes are in an upward spiral, inflation is in full stride.

Prospects of a complete reversal of these trends today are visible. Last week in this column, I briefly discussed the possibility of lower food prices. The Secretary of Agriculture, if I'm not mistaken, wants to reduce the living costs of our people without jeopardizing the farmer's prosperity. Food prices and agricultural costs are part of the recent inflation. Both have been high.

The 13 steel industry wage boosts in 15 years were preceded by rising cost of living indices. These phenomena set price and wage patterns for many industries. Prices chased wages and wages prices.

Official pronouncements of Washington continually stress the desirability of reducing expenses and of cutting taxes. Red figures increase the money supplies; black figures, creating a cash surplus, can decrease them, thus improving the dollar's quality.

Messrs. Dodge, Director of the Federal Budget; Humphrey Burgess and Folsom of the United States Treasury Department; and Wilson, Defense Director, are all engaged in a synchronized effort to increase the integrity of our money. Secretary of Agriculture Benson has a hand in this also.

And members of the Senate and House of Representatives in influential positions are behind them. A balanced budget and a cut in taxes are not too much to expect during 1953 or 1954, barring unexpected war developments.

Lower personal income taxes could have a wholesome psychological effect. In my own circle in recent years I have noticed what economic devastation high personal income taxes have accomplished. Plans have been abandoned for home improvement, for education, for needed vacations, for charity, for world service and many other laudable projects. Millions of our best citizens have been badgered by high living costs and expenses. And far too often, city, state and federal taxes have been the solar plexus blow to unselfish social and religious plans.

Defense Secretary Wilson wants to reduce expenditures. Mr. Dodge wants to cut the federal budget. The three able men in the Treasury want to handle fiscal policy (i.e. income, outgo and federal debt) in a more efficient manner.

Doing these things will tend to reverse the inflationary trends of the past 20 years. With cold war expenditures difficult to estimate at the present time, putting such a program into effect will require study, patience and effort. It cannot be hurried.

However, I am convinced that a better dollar is on the way. Lower costs will bring lower taxes. And lower taxes will bring lower costs. This procedure can start the machinery of lower prices.

These events will lead America down the hill of inflation where she has been living for nearly two decades. We shall have a prosperity with lower prices, costs and taxes. And the dollar will recover some of its lost integrity. In this process it is probable some good stock prices will decline. It is only natural they should.

(Q) "I am saving about $600 a year. I am 26 years of age. Should I put these savings in securities or insurance first?"

(A) I would buy a life insurance policy costing $300 a year at once. Your other savings I would deposit in a good bank at interest. I would build the account up to $1,000. Then, starting in 1956, unless your economic position has rapidly improved and you can begin earlier, buy some good common stocks and increase your insurance.

BETTER DOLLARS

By Harry C. France

A better dollar is on the way. The speed of its arrival will be linked with cold war expenditures. Fighting communism is our country's most expensive activity. Any reduction of expenditure through efficiency or curtailed military operations will usher in a sounder currency.

America's 20-year inflation has been cumulative. The dollar, in terms of gold, was devalued. Then federal deficits were piled on federal deficits. Billions of dollars of paper money were thus created. These events tremendously influenced prices; and rising prices boosted wages, increased costs and lifted tax rates. When prices, wages, costs and taxes are in an upward spiral, inflation is in full stride.

Prospects of a complete reversal of these trends today are visible. Last week in this column, I briefly discussed the possibility of lower food prices. The Secretary of Agriculture, if I'm not mistaken, wants to reduce the living costs of our people without jeopardizing the farmer's prosperity. Food prices and agricultural costs are part of the recent inflation. Both have been high.

The 13 steel industry wage boosts in 15 years were preceded by rising cost of living indices. These phenomena set price and wage patterns for many industries. Prices chased wages and wages prices.

Official pronouncements of Washington continually stress the desirability of reducing expenses and of cutting taxes. Red figures increase the money supplies; black figures, creating a cash surplus, can decrease them, thus improving the dollar's quality.

Messrs. Dodge, Director of the Federal Budget; Humphrey Burgess and Folsom of the United States Treasury Department; and Wilson, Defense Director, are all engaged in a synchronized effort to increase the integrity of our money. Secretary of Agriculture Benson has a hand in this also.

And members of the Senate and House of Representatives in influential positions are behind them. A balanced budget and a cut in taxes are not too much to expect during 1953 or 1954, barring unexpected war developments.

Lower personal income taxes could have a wholesome psychological effect. In my own circle in recent years I have noticed what economic devastation high personal income taxes have accomplished. Plans have been abandoned for home improvement, for education, for needed vacations, for charity, for world service and many other laudable projects. Millions of our best citizens have been badgered by high living costs and expenses. And far too often, city, state and federal taxes have been the solar plexus blow to unselfish social and religious plans.

Defense Secretary Wilson wants to reduce expenditures. Mr. Dodge wants to cut the federal budget. The three able men in the Treasury want to handle fiscal policy (i.e. income, outgo and federal debt) in a more efficient manner.

Doing these things will tend to reverse the inflationary trends of the past 20 years. With cold war expenditures difficult to estimate at the present time, putting such a program into effect will require study, patience and effort. It cannot be hurried.

However, I am convinced that a better dollar is on the way. Lower costs will bring lower taxes. And lower taxes will bring lower costs. This procedure can start the machinery of lower prices.

These events will lead America down the hill of inflation where she has been living for nearly two decades. We shall have a prosperity with lower prices, costs and taxes. And the dollar will recover some of its lost integrity. In this process it is probable some good stock prices will decline. It is only natural they should.

Christian Science Lecture Sunday

Can science and religion be reconciled?

Yes—when both are divested of human error or speculation. Then they coincide.

So spoke George Nay of Chicago, Christian Science lecturer, to a large audience here on Sunday.

The apparent conflict between science and religion arises from errors or mistakes regarding the origin of existence and the nature of the universe, he said.

But pure Science and pure religion disclose the same primal Cause and present the same truths or laws, according to Mr. Nay.

They reveal the one basic Cause of all that exists, Mr. Nay said.

They show this Cause to be divine and infinitely good.

They disclose the demonstrable spiritual laws of the universe.

By the clear understanding of this divine Cause and of universal spiritual law, every human problem can be solved.

All sickness can be healed in this way, said Mr. Nay. Discord can be dispelled, and man's spiritual selfhood as the image of God can be discovered, understood, and made manifest in our lives.

Nay spoke under auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Kingston, in Bethany Hall, First Dutch Church. He was introduced by Mrs. Lillian Hasbrouck. Title of his lecture was "Christian Science: The Coincidence of Pure Science and Pure Religion."

The lecturer pointed out that in a sense science and religion have the same goal. Both are concerned with the ultimate explanation of reality, of the cause and laws of the universe.

But the explanation will be found in investigation of matter, Mr. Nay held.

He said many advanced thinkers among physicists are already reaching out for something beyond matter for an explanation of what is real and why it exists. "They will not find that explanation in the realm of matter but of spiritual sense."

By "spiritual sense," he indicated, he meant the capacity to grasp and understand God's ideas—ideas such as the intelligence and activity of infinite Life, the power and vitality of Love, the beauty and goodness of Truth—by which one can understand God's nature, and man's true status as the expression or idea of God.

That in turn leads to a rational explanation of the universe, for "God and His pure ideas constitute reality," he said.

"Because God is the only source of reality, knowing God is the basic need of every human being," he emphasized.

Genuine reality is found in God's infinite spiritual ideas expressing truthfulness, activity, and intelligence, he continued, and are "like their source, absolutely harmonious, and not subject to change, deterioration, or loss."

The need to know God—and the means for systematic study of His spiritual laws and their application to solve human problems—is supplied by Christian Science as discovered and founded by Mary Baker Eddy, the lecturer declared.

Mr. Nay explained in some detail how Christian Science is applied to human needs. He made plain that it is done on the basis of discarding the physical sense of existence and recognizing that reality—true law, substance, intelligence, and being—are spiritual and divine and of God.

"Like disease, so sorrow, sin, false appetities, all fearsome things, are also but illusions or dreams of the physical sense of existence, totally unreal and therefore subject to destruction through spiritual understanding," fore subject to destruction he said.

"Christ Jesus taught mortals the possibility of their immediate salvation from every form of evil by destroying disease, sin, poverty, and even death before their very eyes and replacing them with the natural manifestations of harmony and Life," he said.

Cadillac

The next time you find yourself alongside a new Cadillac at the traffic light—take a good look at the gentleman behind the wheel.

The odds are overwhelming that you'll see a man who is relaxed and at ease.

For serenity is part and parcel of the great experience of driving a 1953 Cadillac. In fact, owners frequently take to the highway just for the relaxation the car provides.

And well they might. For here, beyond all question, is one of the surest therapeutics for the tension of work-a-day life!

Just sitting there in the driver's seat is enough to put a man at ease. The cushions are deep and luxurious and restful . . . and beauty and comfort and spaciousness are in evidence at every hand.

And driving a Cadillac is as restful as sitting in a Cadillac.

That great, powerful engine responds as if by magic . . . carrying the car in and out of traffic almost as quickly and as easily as the driver makes his decision to do so. Steering is feather-light and effortless . . . and braking calls only for the slightest pressure from the daintiest foot.

All in all, the car's ride is so smooth and level and quiet that it's difficult not to relax!

Of course, if the driver has chosen a Cadillac Air Conditioner* for his car, he refreshes as he relaxes. With a simple adjustment of a single lever, he can lower the car's interior to any normal temperature he desires—even in the warmest weather. And so, as he drives, he leaves behind not only the cares of the hour . . . but the heat of the hour as well.

Yes, it's little wonder that the man in the Cadillac always looks so comfortable and happy and relaxed. In plain fact—he is!

* * * *

Wouldn't it be wonderful to find such satisfaction in your own motoring? Of course it would—and that's why we suggest that you come in for a personal demonstration.

We'll gladly put you behind the wheel—for the most relaxing hour you ever spent on the highway.

Christian Science Lecture Sunday

Can science and religion be reconciled?

Yes—when both are divested of human error or speculation. Then they coincide.

So spoke George Nay of Chicago, Christian Science lecturer, to a large audience here on Sunday.

The apparent conflict between science and religion arises from errors or mistakes regarding the origin of existence and the nature of the universe, he said.

But pure Science and pure religion disclose the same primal Cause and present the same truths or laws, according to Mr. Nay.

They reveal the one basic Cause of all that exists, Mr. Nay said.

They show this Cause to be divine and infinitely good.

They disclose the demonstrable spiritual laws of the universe.

By the clear understanding of this divine Cause and of universal spiritual law, every human problem can be solved.

All sickness can be healed in this way, said Mr. Nay. Discord can be dispelled, and man's spiritual selfhood as the image of God can be discovered, understood, and made manifest in our lives.

Nay spoke under auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Kingston, in Bethany Hall, First Dutch Church. He was introduced by Mrs. Lillian Hasbrouck. Title of his lecture was "Christian Science: The Coincidence of Pure Science and Pure Religion."

The lecturer pointed out that in a sense science and religion have the same goal. Both are concerned with the ultimate explanation of reality, of the cause and laws of the universe.

But the explanation will be found in investigation of matter, Mr. Nay held.

He said many advanced thinkers among physicists are already reaching out for something beyond matter for an explanation of what is real and why it exists. "They will not find that explanation in the realm of matter but of spiritual sense."

By "spiritual sense," he indicated, he meant the capacity to grasp and understand God's ideas—ideas such as the intelligence and activity of infinite Life, the power and vitality of Love, the beauty and goodness of Truth—by which one can understand God's nature, and man's true status as the expression or idea of God.

That in turn leads to a rational explanation of the universe, for "God and His pure ideas constitute reality," he said.

"Because God is the only source of reality, knowing God is the basic need of every human being," he emphasized.

Genuine reality is found in God's infinite spiritual ideas expressing truthfulness, activity, and intelligence, he continued, and are "like their source, absolutely harmonious, and not subject to change, deterioration, or loss."

The need to know God—and the means for systematic study of His spiritual laws and their application to solve human problems—is supplied by Christian Science as discovered and founded by Mary Baker Eddy, the lecturer declared.

Mr. Nay explained in some detail how Christian Science is applied to human needs. He made plain that it is done on the basis of discarding the physical sense of existence and recognizing that reality—true law, substance, intelligence, and being—are spiritual and divine and of God.

"Like disease, so sorrow, sin, false appetities, all fearsome things, are also but illusions or dreams of the physical sense of existence, totally unreal and therefore subject to destruction through spiritual understanding," fore subject to destruction he said.

"Christ Jesus taught mortals the possibility of their immediate salvation from every form of evil by destroying disease, sin, poverty, and even death before their very eyes and replacing them with the natural manifestations of harmony and Life," he said.

HOLES IN U. S. ESPIONAGE LAW

The name of Alger Hiss, convicted perjurer, still evokes strong emotions whenever it is mentioned. But almost forgotten are some of the glaring weaknesses his trials disclosed in America's defenses against espionage and sedition.

Senator Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, now usefully reminds us of these. He says an analysis by the research staff of the Library of Congress shows wide loopholes in our system of safeguards.

According to this study, hostile acts against America might wholly escape punishment in many situations.

For one thing, the statute of limitations runs for too short a period (three years) on espionage. It means that a man guilty of spying in 1949 cannot be convicted on that score in 1953. That's why Hiss was tried and convicted on the relatively minor count of perjury, when the government believed his real offense was espionage.

Secondly, the constitutional guarantees of public trial often dissuade the government from prosecuting a spy, because to gain a conviction might require disclosure of more secret information than the spy had learned on his own. The cost is too great.

Then, too, there are severe legal limits today on the admissibility of evidence, like that obtained in wiretapping. These restrictions have handicapped the government in prosecuting Judith Coplon fromer FBI worker charged with passing secrets to Russia. A feeling exists that authorities ought to have more leeway when national security is at stake.

The immunity granted foreign diplomatic representatives is another obstacle. No one has the slightest doubt that the Russian embassy and consulates in America, plus their counterparts among the satellite nations, are active spy centers. They are largely beyond the reach of American law, however, and thus operate with little difficulty.

The best we can do is ask recall of anyone we believe we have positive proof against. Of course, the deported spy is quickly replaced by another and the process of seeking out proof begins all over again.

To remedy these other loopholes calls for extremely careful amending of present law. A slapdash job could endanger civilian liberties. But the task is one that has too long been overlooked. The Eisenhower administration could make a constructive contribution to the nation's safety by fostering thoughtful legislation in this field.

WHAT IS A DEMOCRAT?

What constitutes a Democrat or a Republican? Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, the first secretary of the newly created Department of Health, Education and Welfare, caused some stir last fall because, though a Texan, she bolted the Democratic ticket and supported General Eisenhower. Now she tells a press conference that she has been voting Republican for president ever since 1940, when she backed Wendell Willkie. She answered another question by saying she hoped that the Republicans would increase their congressional majorities at the 1954 election. Yet she does not admit being a Republican.

Perhaps she is influenced by the stigma which for many years attached itself to a professed Republican in the South. Yet many persons, totally out of sympathy with the party to which they formerly belonged, are loath to make the break final by declaring allegiance to the opposition. Lewis W. Douglas, President Truman's Ambassador to Great Britain, is an example. He stated publicly that he had been voting the Republican ticket for both state and national offices since 1934. Yet he seems still to consider himself a Democrat.

Perhaps it is sentimental attachment to an old cause, just as a man may think tenderly of his one-time fiancee or high school debating society. It is hardly realism, however, for a man to call himself a Democrat who habitually votes Republican, or vice versa.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

OFFICIAL VANITY

When men who have been successful in their vocations are called to Washington to serve as officials, they ought to be put through a primary course of civics. This process of adult education would save them from inevitable grief. Often a man who is full of energy, ability and good intentions has to rediscover that this country is governed by a written Constitution, by acts of legislation, by United States Supreme Court decisions, and by regional public opinion which is frequently influenced by comparatively obscure men of small salaries on the press and radio.

It takes the vanity out of an official to discover that he cannot do as he pleases, even if what he wants to do is right and beneficial. Capable men who have advanced themselves to be presidents of this and that and even chairmen of boards, find it trying to be checked by a Congressman or Senator who never earned more than $15,000 a year.

Yet, the Constitution places the determination of national policy in the hands of Congress. The Founding Fathers were extraordinarily wise men who feared the mob as they feared the elite. They believed in representative government. They wrote a Constitution which avoided the pitfalls of majority rule and at the same time protected our country from smart men. They were not impressed by what the business man calls "substantial people" any more than they were impressed by demagogues. They were influenced by the philosophic Hamilton and Madison and the legalistic Jay. And its spirit was interpreted by the scholarly John Marshall.

Many men of ability these days refuse to take positions in government for two general reasons: one, that they are not accustomed to the slowness of governmental operations; they want to push as hard on a government project as they do on a sales campaign. The other reason is that they dislike submitting to the protracted hearings before Congress, which no man need fear except the stuffed-shirt, the fool, or the crook.

These very important people feel that, once appointed, they should be permitted to do their jobs according to their best judgment. What these men need to learn is that the United States is the property of the American people, who are represented in Congress by men and women of their choice. Further, they need to know that those members of Congress who have, let us say, reached the chairmanship of a committee, out of either party, have had an enormous experience.

The New Dealers used to have a contempt for members of Congress. Part of that was ideological, as the New Dealers were, at heart, Fascists believing in the control of the people by an elite chosen among the educated classes. Their most effective operators never stood for election because of their deep contempt for the people. They regarded Franklin D. Roosevelt as a stepping stone to power.

The New Dealers, particularly the earlier ones, led by Harry Hopkins, however, were cynical individuals who believed that they could always trick the people and Congress by their unquestioned ability to use words that appealed to the emotions rather than to the mind. Having established an emotional climate, they moved large numbers of people with them. It was always skillfully and, to the majority, inoffensively done.

Truman lacked a similar entourage, and in this sense it is possible to say that Truman was a more honest man than Roosevelt. Truman, at any rate, made no pretenses, and if he failed, it was not by masquerading corruption as a virtue or errors as the perfection of the human intellect.

Many of the newer men who have come to Washington under Eisenhower can point to enormous achievements in those narrow worlds in which each is a specialist of the highest order. Unfortunately, in government none is working at his highly cultivated specialty. No official can issue orders and be sure of obedience because ours is not a police state. Nor can those orders be couched in the tight terminology of business; they have to be adjusted to statutes passed by Congress and to all that has gone before.

Furthermore, they are subject to Congressional investigation and to the prospects of criticism by the minority party and to review by the electorate in the next election, which is never more than two years away.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

THE WHY OF PEPTIC ULCER

One of the first lessons taught a medical student, in studying the cause of a disease, is to "look for the commonest cause first."

A growing boy or girl with painful joints is likely to have infection from teeth, tonsils, gums; an individual with an enlarged gland is likely to have an injury—cut, sore—nearby, a patient with ulcer of the stomach or first part of the small intestine (duodenum) is likely to be nervous, high-strung and of slender build. Ulcer of stomach and intestine is called peptic ulcer.

In the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Charles T. Stone, of Galveston, Texas, states that patients with peptic ulcer have, in the majority of instances, a "classic habitus" (build). They are typically long bodied, underweight, asthenic (not strong) persons in whom length is the outstanding characteristic. A long face, long teeth, narrow chest.

Just why this build causes or affects ulcer is not clear, but one reason may be that the narrowness does not allow the stomach to spread itself across the chest or upper abdomen and so affects movements of stomach walls and mixing of stomach digestive juices properly with the food while it is in the stomach. However, there is no question but that the great majority of ulcer patients are of slender build.

That the emotions can cause ulcer even in those of wide build was stated in a previous article.

"That psychic (emotional) factors play a prominent role in causing ulcer is doubted by no one. The anxious, ambitions, partially frustrated, resentful, overactive patient whose daily life is beset with conflicts, always with a goal he can hardly reach, is almost as much a part of the picture of peptic ulcer as is the pain in the stomach two to three hours after meals."

The ulcer picture is so constant that a physician may be tempted at times to call the condition ulcer even before the X-ray films or other tests are made. However, Dr. Stone points out that there is really no pattern that applies to all cases of ulcer.

One does not have to look far to find confirmatory evidence of the effects of nervous tension in patients with ulcer. During the air raids in London, the number of patients with perforated ulcers admitted to London hospitals tripled. Statistics from the hospital of the Krupp works in Germany showed a sharp increase in ulcer after the beginning of World War 2."

In the United States and other countries, with the world so upset, millions have chronic peptic ulcer.

What about treatment of peptic ulcer?

Ulcer occurs in men about four times as often as women, yet women were thought to be the worst worriers.

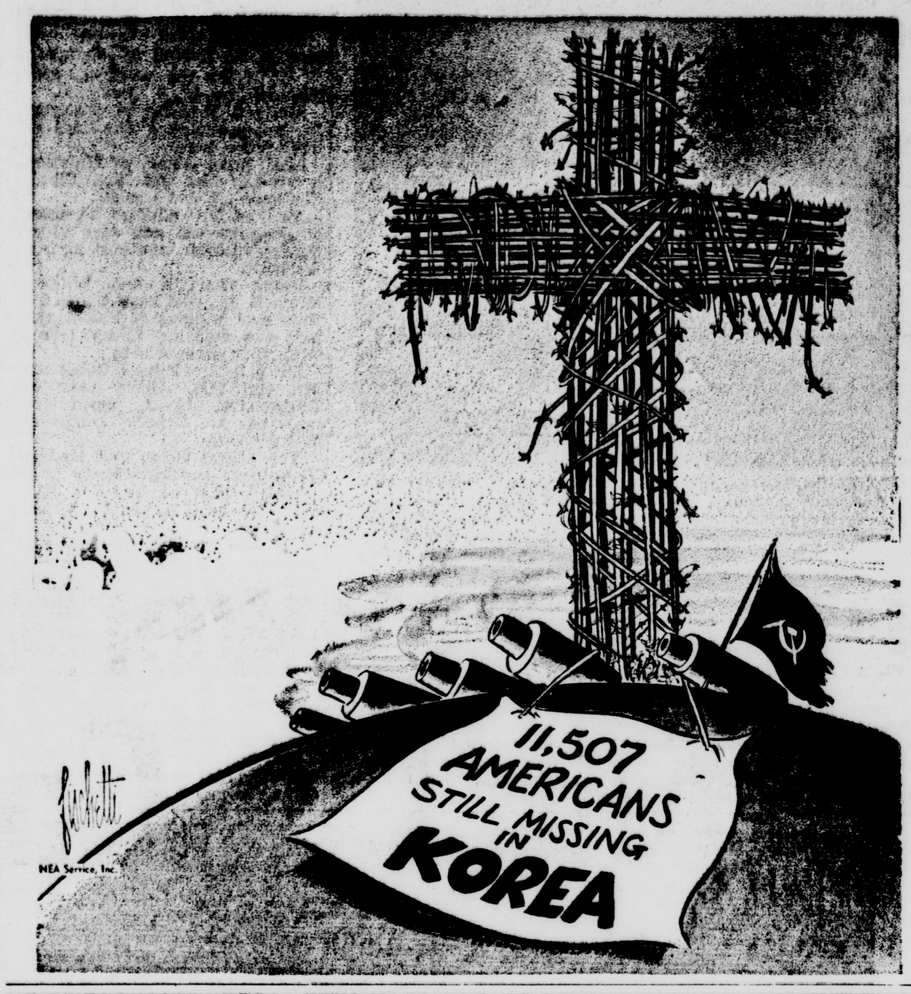

Now, we were born with our own make-up as to nerves, body build, emotions with their tensions. We can't really change this make-up but there are a few things we can "try" to do. First, acquire a philosophy of life by really practicing our religion, by learning how best to meet our problems, use the usual medical treatment (alkalies), avoid infection (teeth, tonsils, gums, gall bladder).

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Probably the only agency in the government which is asking for no appropriation for the next fiscal year is the Bureau of Federal Credit Unions in the Social Security Administration.

Director of this exceptional outfit is Claude R. Orchard, former Omaha packing house personnel officer who has been permitted to stay on his government job though now beyond retirement age. The reason is that he has now brought the federal credit union system to the point where it is self-supporting.

It offers little competition to private banks, which can't profitably handle loans of under $200. So there is little pressure to wipe out credit unions or get the federal government out of the business of promoting or supporting them. Particularly since, from now on, this service isn't going to cost the taxpayers a cent.

For the benefit of anyone not entirely familiar with the idea, it might be explained that a credit union is a cooperative organized to promote thrift for its members. From their combined savings, loans are then made to the members at interest rates of not over 1 per cent a month on the unpaid balance. The average credit union rate for the entire U. S. is under 10 per cent a year.

As few as seven people, employes of the same plant or residents of the same community, may form a credit union. Membership costs 25 cents. To set up a union costs $64. Of this, $25 is for the federal charter, $35 for elementary bookkeeping supplies, $4 for the treasurer's bond. The treasurer is the only paid employe.

The charter comes from the Bureau of Federal Credit Unions, and that's how the U. S. government gets in on the act. The law establishing this system was passed in 1934, just after the bottom of the depression was passed, to help low-income groups over their financial hurdles.

Half Federally Chartered

There were 78 charters granted that first year. Today there are nearly 6300 federally chartered unions in operation. They have 2,800,000 members, total assets of over $600 million and over $300 million out on loan to members. This represents about half of the credit union business in the United States.

The federal government has paid out a total of $4 million in the past 17 years to get this system going. That money won't be paid back. But it has been a good investment in teaching thrift and keeping low-income wage earners out of the clutches of loan sharks.

Also, according to Mr. Orchard, it has been of tremendous value in teaching capitalism and promoting responsibility among employes. Shares in the credit union sell for $5 apiece. The maximum savings are usually $50 a month, or a $2000 total. The shareholders elect the directors. The directors pass on the loans.

There are dividends after the reserves of the local union have been built up. But the main purpose of the operation is for service to members, not for profits.

The function of the federal government in all this is to audit the accounts, supervise the operation and install new unions by granting charters. In so doing, it runs a primary school of banking.

Three-fourths of the people keeping accounts in the local unions are not bookkeepers. The system has to be reduced to such fundamentals that a sharecropper can operate it successfully.

Loan Rules Broadly Interpreted

The law says loans to members must be for provident or protective purposes, but that has been pretty broadly interpreted.

Paying medical bills or making house repairs fall naturally in that definition. But so does money for a vacation or a TV set. Check cashing or purchasing for members are, however, banned.

Unsecured loans may be made up to $400. Secured loans are made for larger amounts as the credit unions grow stronger. The loss ratio for the entire system has been only 14/100 of 1 per cent—which is better than most banks. Mr. Orchard thinks it is now strong enough to operate through another depression without strain.

There have been some cases where federal credit unions failed. One that went bust in a big way was operated by a taxicab owners' association in New York. It had a large number of Sing Sing graduates in its membership.

Then there was a Philadelphia Navy Yard unit that failed in 1945, accounting for nearly a third of all union losses. A small group of officers took this unit to the cleaners when the yard's employment dropped from 45,000 to 4500 at the end of the war. But in liquidating, this union paid off 92 cents on the dollar.

More recently a strong-willed woman who ran a Baltimore credit union with a high hand managed to milk it for losses as yet undetermined. On the other hand, one of the largest and most successful of credit unions at Fall River, Mass., has assets of over $1 million.

When it is recalled that loan shark interest rates run 3½ per cent a month, or 42 per cent a year, the public service in the credit union idea is better appreciated.

Wages of Money Have Been Given a Raise, First in Quarter Century

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 11—Perhaps because the topic is a technical one, the most significant development in a quarter of a century has passed unnoticed by the general public. It is a fact that at last the wages of money have finally been awarded an increase. While wages for almost every form of labor have gone up, the wages of savings—the result of past labor—have lagged.

Most persons do not realize that money earned and saved is entitled to a decent wage. The fruits of labor are as important as labor itself. Otherwise communism and state socialism prevail and the individual isn't able to save at all.

Today there is a catching up at last on the wages of money. The cost of money to the borrower—known as interest—has gone up. Correspondingly the wages of money to the lender—the income—has gone up, too. What almost everybody doesn't realize is that the wages of money—the interest rate—has for 20 years been cut down below the true market value of money. This has been done deliberately by a government control policy that ignored the law of supply and demand. Also at the same time the income from money hired out for interest has been diminished by the government's requirement that a higher and higher proportion of the income from interest must be taxed.

What is a familiar story to banks and financial institutions generally is overlooked by the average observer—namely that when the government borrows money at a specified rate it has an immediate effect on all other interest rates for other borrowings. A few weeks ago the government announced it would borrow one billion dollars in cash at 3¼ per cent on a thirty-year bond. The offer was oversubscribed.

It wasn't the rise of interest offered on this single billion that was so important by itself but what effect it had and will have on the future of the entire structure of government and private debt involving tremendous sums. It was tantamount to recognizing that money has been earning too little and that hereafter money would get a better income. Immediately, for instance, the effect was felt on federal housing loans and mortgage loans generally. Veterans loan interest went up from 4 to 4½ per cent. Interest on government housing loans rose from 4¼ to 4½ per cent.

Immediately a hue and cry arose from some of the political folks—the radical Democrats—who saw an end coming soon to the flow of government capital for socialistic enterprises including public ownership projects that are first cousin to the state socialism of either the Fascist or Communist type.

But the truth is the step just taken emancipates a vast number of people—the lenders or savers—from the bondage of cheap money and inflation. For when money is made cheap deliberately an artificial boom is created by the government itself and prices of everything go sky-high.

If one looks at the political side, there are more votes among the lenders than among the borrowers in America. Every owner of an insurance policy or a pension contract in a sense is a lender. This is because the money that is put out at interest by the insurance companies cannot earn a good income if the rates of interest are too low. The premium charges have to go up, too. It has been a long time since savings bank deposits earned a decent interest rate. There was a time, too, when most all banks paid interest on time deposits. In recent years they have not been able to perform the services they used to perform without charge to the small depositor largely because they found that they could not reinvest their deposits and earn a high enough income to pay their expenses and earn a return on the capital they had risked in their institutions.

All along the line the low interest rate has had inflationary results which have damaged the incomes of widows and orphans as well as other persons living on fixed incomes.

So far as increasing the cost for the borrower is concerned, it should not be forgotten that when one pays interest on any loan this is a deductible item in computing taxes. A person who pays a 20 per cent income tax rate, for example, would be able to take a twenty per cent deduction on interest and would really pay a net rate of four per cent although his mortgage is on a five per cent basis. When the present high taxes are taken into account, all interest rates still are running at a net cost to the borrower that is much lower than appears on its face.

It is too soon to forecast the full effect of a sound interest rate in America but it is not too early to say that a sounder position for the dollar will mean a sounder America in the long run and a strengthening of the whole investment picture for the individual who hires out the money he has sweated so long to earn.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New Orleans, May 10 (AP)—The new south, which I have sung to you the last few days, is having a touch of the shooting insurrection, arson and dynamiting which set government at naught in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania in 1937. The southern people have, if not a special genius, then certainly a knack for night-riding and burning, dormant since the days of the original Ku Klux Klan. Terrible conditions then called forth organized counter-terror. Prediction is out of my line, but I doubt that the south in its present genteel condition will produce any such force of gallant vigilantes. The cops, being uninstructed for this strange emergency, and the politicians, being caught without a "policy," conditions will get worse before they get better.

There is a civil war at Elizabeth, La., population 1,500, where a strike has been raging against some mills which make paper out of pine. The strike began last Sept. 13. About 500 workers quit at first but many of them, who are part-time farmers, soon went back. Since then there have been more than 65 dynamitings of homes, taverns, and automobiles. Ten days ago the sheriff threw up the sponge and warned all strangers to carry shotguns. On April 24, the news from Elizabeth was that in this area, "seething with hate and vengeance for nearly eight months," many acres of pasture had been strewn with a chemical fertilizer fatal to cattle. State police who had been keeping up an erratic system of roadblocks with absolutely blank results, said the poison first was found on a non-union man's pasture. Later, they said some union pasture was poisoned, too.

No plausible statement was made to excuse the gross incompetence of the state cops, big, meaty fellows with the affected slouch of all such corps. They have a refined talent for slewing through the streets of New Orleans, with their sirens going as they escort very important persons from luncheon to cocktails and then to the airport. As of now, they and the sheriff's force can't make a single pinch in a rural region of small population under conditions which point unmistakably to the dynamiters. The governor could declare martial law, but this newly industrial and newly rich territory of the southern tier has had little experience of unionism. So, like the victimized northern centers, the south wants to learn the hard way.

The unions concerned are the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers and the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers, both of the A.F. of L. President Eisenhower reached into the A.F. of L. for his secretary of labor, choosing a Democrat, Martin Durkin, for this useless sinecure, to appease both Democrats and professional unioneers. Many Democrats in the south had supported him, and many southern Democratic papers which wanted a political hybrid President. But none of them yearned for riotous Yankee unionism. The unions, on the other hand, opposed and lied about Ike, and Durkin was a member of that opposition.

The southern tier has been hostile to unions for many reasons. On top of all other reasons, the people had read of the invasion of northern communities by blood-thirsty CIO Communists, and of the trembling surrender of northern governors, mayors, sheriffs and police. The south had enough of that stuff back in the late 1860's. It was put down only when General Nathan Bedford Forrest sprang to the head of the Ku Klux Klan, leading the best men of the south on forays in the dark of the moon.

On April 7, under a Shreveport date-line, the AP said: "Two union officials predicted that bloody violence might explode in two paper mill strikes at Elizabeth and end seven months of property destruction." The dispatch continued: "Charles E. Stewart, of Shreveport, international representative of the Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, said: 'The thing we fear is a possibility there will be bloodshed. It may be innocent blood.'"

The distinction between innocent and guilty blood was not spelled out, but Mr. Stewart obviously had his standards. His threats were made publicly at a convention of the State Federation of Labor. An attorney for the unions wired Governor Robert Kennon that all workers in the plants now carried guns and asked him to direct the state cops to confiscate them.

That would leave them defenseless against the goons.

Kennon said the state cops were acting fairly, which seemed a fair statement inasmuch as they were not doing anything. And the countryside had been reasonably peaceful until professional goons came in to demand that many Louisiana farmers, who don't take to strangers, join the union and pay part of their wages to persons unknown for mythical services.

HOLES IN U. S. ESPIONAGE LAW

The name of Alger Hiss, convicted perjurer, still evokes strong emotions whenever it is mentioned. But almost forgotten are some of the glaring weaknesses his trials disclosed in America's defenses against espionage and sedition.

Senator Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, now usefully reminds us of these. He says an analysis by the research staff of the Library of Congress shows wide loopholes in our system of safeguards.

According to this study, hostile acts against America might wholly escape punishment in many situations.

For one thing, the statute of limitations runs for too short a period (three years) on espionage. It means that a man guilty of spying in 1949 cannot be convicted on that score in 1953. That's why Hiss was tried and convicted on the relatively minor count of perjury, when the government believed his real offense was espionage.

Secondly, the constitutional guarantees of public trial often dissuade the government from prosecuting a spy, because to gain a conviction might require disclosure of more secret information than the spy had learned on his own. The cost is too great.

Then, too, there are severe legal limits today on the admissibility of evidence, like that obtained in wiretapping. These restrictions have handicapped the government in prosecuting Judith Coplon fromer FBI worker charged with passing secrets to Russia. A feeling exists that authorities ought to have more leeway when national security is at stake.

The immunity granted foreign diplomatic representatives is another obstacle. No one has the slightest doubt that the Russian embassy and consulates in America, plus their counterparts among the satellite nations, are active spy centers. They are largely beyond the reach of American law, however, and thus operate with little difficulty.

The best we can do is ask recall of anyone we believe we have positive proof against. Of course, the deported spy is quickly replaced by another and the process of seeking out proof begins all over again.

To remedy these other loopholes calls for extremely careful amending of present law. A slapdash job could endanger civilian liberties. But the task is one that has too long been overlooked. The Eisenhower administration could make a constructive contribution to the nation's safety by fostering thoughtful legislation in this field.

WHAT IS A DEMOCRAT?

What constitutes a Democrat or a Republican? Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, the first secretary of the newly created Department of Health, Education and Welfare, caused some stir last fall because, though a Texan, she bolted the Democratic ticket and supported General Eisenhower. Now she tells a press conference that she has been voting Republican for president ever since 1940, when she backed Wendell Willkie. She answered another question by saying she hoped that the Republicans would increase their congressional majorities at the 1954 election. Yet she does not admit being a Republican.

Perhaps she is influenced by the stigma which for many years attached itself to a professed Republican in the South. Yet many persons, totally out of sympathy with the party to which they formerly belonged, are loath to make the break final by declaring allegiance to the opposition. Lewis W. Douglas, President Truman's Ambassador to Great Britain, is an example. He stated publicly that he had been voting the Republican ticket for both state and national offices since 1934. Yet he seems still to consider himself a Democrat.

Perhaps it is sentimental attachment to an old cause, just as a man may think tenderly of his one-time fiancee or high school debating society. It is hardly realism, however, for a man to call himself a Democrat who habitually votes Republican, or vice versa.

'These Days'

OFFICIAL VANITY

When men who have been successful in their vocations are called to Washington to serve as officials, they ought to be put through a primary course of civics. This process of adult education would save them from inevitable grief. Often a man who is full of energy, ability and good intentions has to rediscover that this country is governed by a written Constitution, by acts of legislation, by United States Supreme Court decisions, and by regional public opinion which is frequently influenced by comparatively obscure men of small salaries on the press and radio.

It takes the vanity out of an official to discover that he cannot do as he pleases, even if what he wants to do is right and beneficial. Capable men who have advanced themselves to be presidents of this and that and even chairmen of boards, find it trying to be checked by a Congressman or Senator who never earned more than $15,000 a year.

Yet, the Constitution places the determination of national policy in the hands of Congress. The Founding Fathers were extraordinarily wise men who feared the mob as they feared the elite. They believed in representative government. They wrote a Constitution which avoided the pitfalls of majority rule and at the same time protected our country from smart men. They were not impressed by what the business man calls "substantial people" any more than they were impressed by demagogues. They were influenced by the philosophic Hamilton and Madison and the legalistic Jay. And its spirit was interpreted by the scholarly John Marshall.

Many men of ability these days refuse to take positions in government for two general reasons: one, that they are not accustomed to the slowness of governmental operations; they want to push as hard on a government project as they do on a sales campaign. The other reason is that they dislike submitting to the protracted hearings before Congress, which no man need fear except the stuffed-shirt, the fool, or the crook.

These very important people feel that, once appointed, they should be permitted to do their jobs according to their best judgment. What these men need to learn is that the United States is the property of the American people, who are represented in Congress by men and women of their choice. Further, they need to know that those members of Congress who have, let us say, reached the chairmanship of a committee, out of either party, have had an enormous experience.

The New Dealers used to have a contempt for members of Congress. Part of that was ideological, as the New Dealers were, at heart, Fascists believing in the control of the people by an elite chosen among the educated classes. Their most effective operators never stood for election because of their deep contempt for the people. They regarded Franklin D. Roosevelt as a stepping stone to power.

The New Dealers, particularly the earlier ones, led by Harry Hopkins, however, were cynical individuals who believed that they could always trick the people and Congress by their unquestioned ability to use words that appealed to the emotions rather than to the mind. Having established an emotional climate, they moved large numbers of people with them. It was always skillfully and, to the majority, inoffensively done.

Truman lacked a similar entourage, and in this sense it is possible to say that Truman was a more honest man than Roosevelt. Truman, at any rate, made no pretenses, and if he failed, it was not by masquerading corruption as a virtue or errors as the perfection of the human intellect.

Many of the newer men who have come to Washington under Eisenhower can point to enormous achievements in those narrow worlds in which each is a specialist of the highest order. Unfortunately, in government none is working at his highly cultivated specialty. No official can issue orders and be sure of obedience because ours is not a police state. Nor can those orders be couched in the tight terminology of business; they have to be adjusted to statutes passed by Congress and to all that has gone before.

Furthermore, they are subject to Congressional investigation and to the prospects of criticism by the minority party and to review by the electorate in the next election, which is never more than two years away.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

THE WHY OF PEPTIC ULCER

One of the first lessons taught a medical student, in studying the cause of a disease, is to "look for the commonest cause first."

A growing boy or girl with painful joints is likely to have infection from teeth, tonsils, gums; an individual with an enlarged gland is likely to have an injury—cut, sore—nearby, a patient with ulcer of the stomach or first part of the small intestine (duodenum) is likely to be nervous, high-strung and of slender build. Ulcer of stomach and intestine is called peptic ulcer.

In the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Charles T. Stone, of Galveston, Texas, states that patients with peptic ulcer have, in the majority of instances, a "classic habitus" (build). They are typically long bodied, underweight, asthenic (not strong) persons in whom length is the outstanding characteristic. A long face, long teeth, narrow chest.

Just why this build causes or affects ulcer is not clear, but one reason may be that the narrowness does not allow the stomach to spread itself across the chest or upper abdomen and so affects movements of stomach walls and mixing of stomach digestive juices properly with the food while it is in the stomach. However, there is no question but that the great majority of ulcer patients are of slender build.

That the emotions can cause ulcer even in those of wide build was stated in a previous article.

"That psychic (emotional) factors play a prominent role in causing ulcer is doubted by no one. The anxious, ambitions, partially frustrated, resentful, overactive patient whose daily life is beset with conflicts, always with a goal he can hardly reach, is almost as much a part of the picture of peptic ulcer as is the pain in the stomach two to three hours after meals."

The ulcer picture is so constant that a physician may be tempted at times to call the condition ulcer even before the X-ray films or other tests are made. However, Dr. Stone points out that there is really no pattern that applies to all cases of ulcer.

One does not have to look far to find confirmatory evidence of the effects of nervous tension in patients with ulcer. During the air raids in London, the number of patients with perforated ulcers admitted to London hospitals tripled. Statistics from the hospital of the Krupp works in Germany showed a sharp increase in ulcer after the beginning of World War 2."

In the United States and other countries, with the world so upset, millions have chronic peptic ulcer.

What about treatment of peptic ulcer?

Ulcer occurs in men about four times as often as women, yet women were thought to be the worst worriers.

Now, we were born with our own make-up as to nerves, body build, emotions with their tensions. We can't really change this make-up but there are a few things we can "try" to do. First, acquire a philosophy of life by really practicing our religion, by learning how best to meet our problems, use the usual medical treatment (alkalies), avoid infection (teeth, tonsils, gums, gall bladder).

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Probably the only agency in the government which is asking for no appropriation for the next fiscal year is the Bureau of Federal Credit Unions in the Social Security Administration.

Director of this exceptional outfit is Claude R. Orchard, former Omaha packing house personnel officer who has been permitted to stay on his government job though now beyond retirement age. The reason is that he has now brought the federal credit union system to the point where it is self-supporting.

It offers little competition to private banks, which can't profitably handle loans of under $200. So there is little pressure to wipe out credit unions or get the federal government out of the business of promoting or supporting them. Particularly since, from now on, this service isn't going to cost the taxpayers a cent.

For the benefit of anyone not entirely familiar with the idea, it might be explained that a credit union is a cooperative organized to promote thrift for its members. From their combined savings, loans are then made to the members at interest rates of not over 1 per cent a month on the unpaid balance. The average credit union rate for the entire U. S. is under 10 per cent a year.

As few as seven people, employes of the same plant or residents of the same community, may form a credit union. Membership costs 25 cents. To set up a union costs $64. Of this, $25 is for the federal charter, $35 for elementary bookkeeping supplies, $4 for the treasurer's bond. The treasurer is the only paid employe.

The charter comes from the Bureau of Federal Credit Unions, and that's how the U. S. government gets in on the act. The law establishing this system was passed in 1934, just after the bottom of the depression was passed, to help low-income groups over their financial hurdles.

Half Federally Chartered

There were 78 charters granted that first year. Today there are nearly 6300 federally chartered unions in operation. They have 2,800,000 members, total assets of over $600 million and over $300 million out on loan to members. This represents about half of the credit union business in the United States.

The federal government has paid out a total of $4 million in the past 17 years to get this system going. That money won't be paid back. But it has been a good investment in teaching thrift and keeping low-income wage earners out of the clutches of loan sharks.

Also, according to Mr. Orchard, it has been of tremendous value in teaching capitalism and promoting responsibility among employes. Shares in the credit union sell for $5 apiece. The maximum savings are usually $50 a month, or a $2000 total. The shareholders elect the directors. The directors pass on the loans.

There are dividends after the reserves of the local union have been built up. But the main purpose of the operation is for service to members, not for profits.

The function of the federal government in all this is to audit the accounts, supervise the operation and install new unions by granting charters. In so doing, it runs a primary school of banking.

Three-fourths of the people keeping accounts in the local unions are not bookkeepers. The system has to be reduced to such fundamentals that a sharecropper can operate it successfully.

Loan Rules Broadly Interpreted

The law says loans to members must be for provident or protective purposes, but that has been pretty broadly interpreted.

Paying medical bills or making house repairs fall naturally in that definition. But so does money for a vacation or a TV set. Check cashing or purchasing for members are, however, banned.

Unsecured loans may be made up to $400. Secured loans are made for larger amounts as the credit unions grow stronger. The loss ratio for the entire system has been only 14/100 of 1 per cent—which is better than most banks. Mr. Orchard thinks it is now strong enough to operate through another depression without strain.

There have been some cases where federal credit unions failed. One that went bust in a big way was operated by a taxicab owners' association in New York. It had a large number of Sing Sing graduates in its membership.

Then there was a Philadelphia Navy Yard unit that failed in 1945, accounting for nearly a third of all union losses. A small group of officers took this unit to the cleaners when the yard's employment dropped from 45,000 to 4500 at the end of the war. But in liquidating, this union paid off 92 cents on the dollar.

More recently a strong-willed woman who ran a Baltimore credit union with a high hand managed to milk it for losses as yet undetermined. On the other hand, one of the largest and most successful of credit unions at Fall River, Mass., has assets of over $1 million.

When it is recalled that loan shark interest rates run 3½ per cent a month, or 42 per cent a year, the public service in the credit union idea is better appreciated.

Lake Harahi in India

Lake Harahi in Darbhanga, India, covers an area of 1600 x 1000 feet to a depth of 12 feet and plays an important part in the irrigation of the land. It was created when the Maharaja lost a valuable bracelet and ordered the population of his kingdom to dig up the ground until the bracelet was found. The loss was recovered and in the process the tremendous hole was dug which was soon filled with rain water and constitutes Lake Harahi today.

Wages of Money Have Been Given a Raise, First in Quarter Century

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 11—Perhaps because the topic is a technical one, the most significant development in a quarter of a century has passed unnoticed by the general public. It is a fact that at last the wages of money have finally been awarded an increase. While wages for almost every form of labor have gone up, the wages of savings—the result of past labor—have lagged.

Most persons do not realize that money earned and saved is entitled to a decent wage. The fruits of labor are as important as labor itself. Otherwise communism and state socialism prevail and the individual isn't able to save at all.

Today there is a catching up at last on the wages of money. The cost of money to the borrower—known as interest—has gone up. Correspondingly the wages of money to the lender—the income—has gone up, too. What almost everybody doesn't realize is that the wages of money—the interest rate—has for 20 years been cut down below the true market value of money. This has been done deliberately by a government control policy that ignored the law of supply and demand. Also at the same time the income from money hired out for interest has been diminished by the government's requirement that a higher and higher proportion of the income from interest must be taxed.

What is a familiar story to banks and financial institutions generally is overlooked by the average observer—namely that when the government borrows money at a specified rate it has an immediate effect on all other interest rates for other borrowings. A few weeks ago the government announced it would borrow one billion dollars in cash at 3¼ per cent on a thirty-year bond. The offer was oversubscribed.

It wasn't the rise of interest offered on this single billion that was so important by itself but what effect it had and will have on the future of the entire structure of government and private debt involving tremendous sums. It was tantamount to recognizing that money has been earning too little and that hereafter money would get a better income. Immediately, for instance, the effect was felt on federal housing loans and mortgage loans generally. Veterans loan interest went up from 4 to 4½ per cent. Interest on government housing loans rose from 4¼ to 4½ per cent.

Immediately a hue and cry arose from some of the political folks—the radical Democrats—who saw an end coming soon to the flow of government capital for socialistic enterprises including public ownership projects that are first cousin to the state socialism of either the Fascist or Communist type.

But the truth is the step just taken emancipates a vast number of people—the lenders or savers—from the bondage of cheap money and inflation. For when money is made cheap deliberately an artificial boom is created by the government itself and prices of everything go sky-high.

If one looks at the political side, there are more votes among the lenders than among the borrowers in America. Every owner of an insurance policy or a pension contract in a sense is a lender. This is because the money that is put out at interest by the insurance companies cannot earn a good income if the rates of interest are too low. The premium charges have to go up, too. It has been a long time since savings bank deposits earned a decent interest rate. There was a time, too, when most all banks paid interest on time deposits. In recent years they have not been able to perform the services they used to perform without charge to the small depositor largely because they found that they could not reinvest their deposits and earn a high enough income to pay their expenses and earn a return on the capital they had risked in their institutions.

All along the line the low interest rate has had inflationary results which have damaged the incomes of widows and orphans as well as other persons living on fixed incomes.

So far as increasing the cost for the borrower is concerned, it should not be forgotten that when one pays interest on any loan this is a deductible item in computing taxes. A person who pays a 20 per cent income tax rate, for example, would be able to take a twenty per cent deduction on interest and would really pay a net rate of four per cent although his mortgage is on a five per cent basis. When the present high taxes are taken into account, all interest rates still are running at a net cost to the borrower that is much lower than appears on its face.

It is too soon to forecast the full effect of a sound interest rate in America but it is not too early to say that a sounder position for the dollar will mean a sounder America in the long run and a strengthening of the whole investment picture for the individual who hires out the money he has sweated so long to earn.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New Orleans, May 10 (AP)—The new south, which I have sung to you the last few days, is having a touch of the shooting insurrection, arson and dynamiting which set government at naught in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania in 1937. The southern people have, if not a special genius, then certainly a knack for night-riding and burning, dormant since the days of the original Ku Klux Klan. Terrible conditions then called forth organized counter-terror. Prediction is out of my line, but I doubt that the south in its present genteel condition will produce any such force of gallant vigilantes. The cops, being uninstructed for this strange emergency, and the politicians, being caught without a "policy," conditions will get worse before they get better.

There is a civil war at Elizabeth, La., population 1,500, where a strike has been raging against some mills which make paper out of pine. The strike began last Sept. 13. About 500 workers quit at first but many of them, who are part-time farmers, soon went back. Since then there have been more than 65 dynamitings of homes, taverns, and automobiles. Ten days ago the sheriff threw up the sponge and warned all strangers to carry shotguns. On April 24, the news from Elizabeth was that in this area, "seething with hate and vengeance for nearly eight months," many acres of pasture had been strewn with a chemical fertilizer fatal to cattle. State police who had been keeping up an erratic system of roadblocks with absolutely blank results, said the poison first was found on a non-union man's pasture. Later, they said some union pasture was poisoned, too.

No plausible statement was made to excuse the gross incompetence of the state cops, big, meaty fellows with the affected slouch of all such corps. They have a refined talent for slewing through the streets of New Orleans, with their sirens going as they escort very important persons from luncheon to cocktails and then to the airport. As of now, they and the sheriff's force can't make a single pinch in a rural region of small population under conditions which point unmistakably to the dynamiters. The governor could declare martial law, but this newly industrial and newly rich territory of the southern tier has had little experience of unionism. So, like the victimized northern centers, the south wants to learn the hard way.

The unions concerned are the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers and the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers, both of the A.F. of L. President Eisenhower reached into the A.F. of L. for his secretary of labor, choosing a Democrat, Martin Durkin, for this useless sinecure, to appease both Democrats and professional unioneers. Many Democrats in the south had supported him, and many southern Democratic papers which wanted a political hybrid President. But none of them yearned for riotous Yankee unionism. The unions, on the other hand, opposed and lied about Ike, and Durkin was a member of that opposition.

The southern tier has been hostile to unions for many reasons. On top of all other reasons, the people had read of the invasion of northern communities by blood-thirsty CIO Communists, and of the trembling surrender of northern governors, mayors, sheriffs and police. The south had enough of that stuff back in the late 1860's. It was put down only when General Nathan Bedford Forrest sprang to the head of the Ku Klux Klan, leading the best men of the south on forays in the dark of the moon.

On April 7, under a Shreveport date-line, the AP said: "Two union officials predicted that bloody violence might explode in two paper mill strikes at Elizabeth and end seven months of property destruction." The dispatch continued: "Charles E. Stewart, of Shreveport, international representative of the Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, said: 'The thing we fear is a possibility there will be bloodshed. It may be innocent blood.'"

The distinction between innocent and guilty blood was not spelled out, but Mr. Stewart obviously had his standards. His threats were made publicly at a convention of the State Federation of Labor. An attorney for the unions wired Governor Robert Kennon that all workers in the plants now carried guns and asked him to direct the state cops to confiscate them.

That would leave them defenseless against the goons.

Kennon said the state cops were acting fairly, which seemed a fair statement inasmuch as they were not doing anything. And the countryside had been reasonably peaceful until professional goons came in to demand that many Louisiana farmers, who don't take to strangers, join the union and pay part of their wages to persons unknown for mythical services.

NLRB Rules Typos Can't Insist on Cancelable Plan

Washington, May 9 (AP)—The AFL's International Typographical Union (ITU) must bargain fairly with newspaper publishers, without insisting on 60-day cancelable contracts, the National Labor Relations Board has ruled.

The board issued its order yesterday in the more than five-year-old dispute between the union and the American Newspaper Publishers Association (ANPA).

It said the record indicated strongly a disposition by the union to try to obtain "closed shop" conditions and that "we have ample reason presently to believe that this disposition still exists." Closed shop contracts, under which a union supplies workers for the employer, are banned by the Taft-Hartley labor law.

The union was ordered to post formal notice that it would not refuse either specifically "or by insistence upon a 60-day cancelable contract, or by any other means, to bargain collectively and in good faith with any employer in the newspaper industry" whose employes it represented.

For a time after the Taft-Hartley law went into effect, the ITU attempted to negotiate only oral agreements or a set of working rules that could be cancelled on 60-day notice.

The union told the board in a brief that this procedure had been used only for five months up to March, 1948, but the board asserted it had been dropped only after a U. S. District Court issued an injunction against the union.

The ANPA accused the union of trying to evade the law's provisions and refusing to bargain in good faith. The ensuing dispute was marked by long strikes on newspapers in Chicago and elsewhere.

The union contended there was no evidence of refusal to bargain, but the board said the policies of the act could best be carried out "by enjoining the respondents from refusing to bargain not only by devices designed to establish unlawful closed-shop conditions but also by any means tending to interfere with the establishment of genuine collective bargaining on a basis of mutuality."

It was decided that with the permission of the Consistory, Sunday school would close during the month of August this year; and in July special slides in conjunction with the lesson would be shown to the pupils of the school. It was also decided that the present material not be renewed for the coming year, and the related material of David C. Cook, be substituted. Consensus of opinion was that the Cook material was most suited to the level of study in the school. Miss Mary L. DuBois, secretary, was authorized to send a check to the church for another $250 for the recent remodeling. It was decided that the Sunday school would solicit members of the congregation for a donation to this project, in addition to making their partial payment to the consistory. Mrs. Herman Mahlandt was appointed as Missionary Education Chairman of the Sunday school. The meeting closed after a final check on the plans for the Family Night Social to be held Thursday night in the church hall.

The Most Powerful Gasoline Your Car Can Use!

Shell Premium Gasoline is the most powerful your car can use for three reasons. First, it is Shell's policy to manufacture it that way. Second, Shell works closely with the automobile industry in fuel-engine research. And, third, Shell—by actual road test in production models of new automobiles—makes sure that the fuel it produces is the most powerful gasoline today's cars can use.

But, important as they are, these three reasons tell only part of the story. For example, there can be as many as 1500 different chemical compounds in a gallon of gasoline. To select the best of these chemicals, and to arrange them properly to fulfill the needs of your car calls for the last word in refinery equipment and scientific skill.

Actually, Shell scientists activate Shell Premium Gasoline by splitting—then rearranging petroleum molecules according to an exclusive formula developed through Shell Research.

The result—Shell Premium—"The most powerful gasoline your car can use." See the Shell Dealer in your neighborhood today.

The Most Powerful Gasoline Your Car Can Use!

Shell Premium Gasoline is the most powerful your car can use for three reasons. First, it is Shell's policy to manufacture it that way. Second, Shell works closely with the automobile industry in fuel-engine research. And, third, Shell—by actual road test in production models of new automobiles—makes sure that the fuel it produces is the most powerful gasoline today's cars can use.

But, important as they are, these three reasons tell only part of the story. For example, there can be as many as 1500 different chemical compounds in a gallon of gasoline. To select the best of these chemicals, and to arrange them properly to fulfill the needs of your car calls for the last word in refinery equipment and scientific skill.

Actually, Shell scientists activate Shell Premium Gasoline by splitting—then rearranging petroleum molecules according to an exclusive formula developed through Shell Research.

The result—Shell Premium—"The most powerful gasoline your car can use." See the Shell Dealer in your neighborhood today.

Sixth Man Held In Morals Case

The sixth arrest was made this noon as authorities continued to round up men indicted on morals charges.

George R. Hutter, 24, of 112 West Pierpont street, was booked at the court house on charges of carnal abuse of a child and sodomy. Hutter was arrested at Eddyville by County Investigator Arthur H. Brown and Assistant Investigator William Churchill after they spotted his automobile parked near a dump.

The arrests were made on bench warrants signed by County Judge John M. Cashin on the basis of sealed indictments returned by the grand jury on May 1.

Man's Body Found, Gone Since March

A body recovered from the Wallkill river at Rifton on Saturday at noon has been identified as that of Charles W. Deyo, 71, of Springtown road, New Paltz, missing since March 12, state police of Highland reported.

The body was discovered floating in the water by a Rifton resident, Peter Peterson, troopers said.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly was notified and issued a verdict of accidental death by drowning. The body was removed to the Pine Funeral Home in New Paltz.

The body was found about five or six miles downstream from the place where Deyo was believed to have been setting out fishing nets the day he was last seen. For the first several weeks following his disappearance, state police and sheriff's office men conducted intensive grappling operations in an unsuccessful attempt to locate the body.

Deyo is survived by his wife and a daughter. Services were held Sunday at 2 p. m. from the V. T. Pine and Son Funeral Home, New Paltz, with burial in Rosendale Plains Cemetery.

Horse Is Rescued From Mud Trap by Volunteer Firemen

A horse which had become mired in the mud along a creek bank at Camp Wahkonda on the Ruby road was rescued Sunday evening by volunteer firemen and others.

Harvey Palen of Camp Wahkonda reported today that the horse, one of 11 at the camp, suffered chills but as far as is known at present came through the ordeal without bad injury.

The animal apparently slipped into the stream when a bank caved in, and in attempting to climb from the stream bed became mired in the mud. A man in a motorboat discovered the horse when just his head was still above the mud and water, according to Palen, who was notified and, after getting a rope on him requested assistance through the county firemen's mutual aid system. The call was relayed from the Kingston Central Fire Station to the Mt. Marion-Ruby Department, which responded.

Bus Fire Is Checked; Voltage Short Blamed

The East Kingston Fire Department extinguished a fire which had begun to spread through the upholstery of an Acker Bus Line vehicle at 10:55 a. m. today.

Assistant Chief James Costello reported that the fire apparently started when a short in the voltage regulator caused a spark, which ignited gasoline on a brush with which a driver was cleaning the motor. The brush apparently was dropped when it blazed up, and ignited gasoline in a pan and then spread to the upholstery, according to the report. Firemen used a C02 extinguisher on the gasoline and a fog nozzle in putting out the smouldering upholstery.

The bus was parked near St. Colman's Hall in East Kingston at the time of the mishap.

State Fire Training Session Held Friday

Tillson, May 11—The third session in the current State Fire Training Program was held Friday evening in the Tillson Firehall with 19 volunteer firemen in attendance from Tillson, Rosendale, Binnewater and adjoining towns. Deputy Chief Harold Sanford of the Kingston Fire Department was the instructor, the subject, Forcible Entry and Ventilation. Sanford pointed out to the men that "when a human life is at stake, everything else is out of the picture," as far as property damage is concerned, and even sometimes the safety factor involved. At times volunteer firemen as well as paid firemen must take chances.

The use of the proper tools for entering a burning building was explained and illustrated. Sanford explained why buildings must be ventilated and when to ventilate, besides precautions to take when so doing.

The next session is scheduled for Friday, May 22, at 7:45 p. m., and it is hoped that more men will be able to attend. The subject for this fourth lesson will be Breathing Apparatus, and further instruction will be given in knot tying. Men are asked to bring a piece of rope about four feet in length.

Broken glass was scattered over 400 feet of highway near the Onteora School at Boiceville when a Hershey Beverage Company truck hit a soft shoulder and dumped three or four dozen cases of soda about 2 p. m. Pleasant, had started to pass another truck when the latter began a left turn off the Onteora Trail. Caruso swerved to the left side of the highway, struck the shoulder, and as he was swinging back to the right side, the soda cases jounced off, according to the report. There were no personal injuries and no arrests made.

Taken before Justice of the Peace Albert Lester of Highland, Wager pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle with improper registration, and was fined $10. Bar Pays Tributes

judge's remarkable memory for names and faces. "I daresay he could remember the faces and names of the many thousands of his former students."

Outstanding Court

Attorney Henry Klein added other words of tribute, and Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick expressed the fact that Judge Loughran was known throughout the state and nation. He made the Court of Appeals "the outstanding court of the nation," Justice Schirick said.

When Judge Loughran was nominated for the Court of Appeals, Schirick recalled, his former students from outside the district wrote "more than 5,000 letters" to persons within the district urging them to vote for their beloved professor, Schirick recalled. He also read from a number of tributes that had been made elsewhere in the state after Judge Loughran's death.

Justice Deckelman, presiding, said that although he was not as well acquainted with Judge Loughran as were the members of the Ulster County Bar, "I yield to none in my admiration for his character and ability. He lived and died a great teacher, a great judge and a great gentleman."

Justice Deckelman ordered the tributes spread on the minutes, printed in appropriate form and manner with sufficient copies for distribution to the attorneys. He also directed that, when the term of court adjourns, it does so in respect to the memory of Judge Loughran.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 11 (AP)—Steels and utilities led the stock market higher today in cautious trading.

Selected motors, chemicals and railroads also made progress. But changes were limited to minor fractions for the most part.

DuPont climbed a point at 96¾, to record one of the few wide movements. Packard was up ¼ at 5⅞ at the opening on a block of 2,200. But it soon lost half of this advance. American Telephone up ⅛ at 155⅝ on a block of 1,900 shares at the opening gun, and managed to regain this price after slipping back to its opening quotation during the first hour.

Rising fractions were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Consolidated Edison, Phelps Dodge, International Nickel, Union Carbide, General Electric, New York Central, Southern Pacific, United Air Lines and Johns-Manville.

There is another factor to be considered in either a frontal move against the enemy line or a flanking operation by amphibious la nding:

At this time, with present manpower, UN forces might be able to mount an offensive and crush Communist strength in North Korea. But it would be the military's well-known "calculated risk" in extreme form.

The sixth arrest was made this noon as authorities continued to round up men indicted on morals charges.

George R. Hutter, 24, of 112 West Pierpont street, was booked at the court house on charges of carnal abuse of a child and sodomy. Hutter was arrested at Eddyville by County Investigator Arthur H. The arrests were made on bench warrants signed by County Judge John M. Cashin on the basis of sealed indictments returned by the grand jury on May 1.

Man's Body Found, Gone Since March

A body recovered from the Wallkill river at Rifton on Saturday at noon has been identified as that of Charles W. Deyo, 71, of Springtown road, New Paltz, missing since March 12, state police of Highland reported.

The body was discovered floating in the water by a Rifton resident, Peter Peterson, troopers said.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly was notified and issued a verdict of accidental death by drowning. The body was removed to the Pine Funeral Home in New Paltz.

The body was found about five or six miles downstream from the place where Deyo was believed to have been setting out fishing nets the day he was last seen. For the first several weeks following his disappearance, state police and sheriff's office men conducted intensive grappling operations in an unsuccessful attempt to locate the body.

Deyo is survived by his wife and a daughter. Services were held Sunday at 2 p. m. from the V. T. Pine and Son Funeral Home, New Paltz, with burial in Rosendale Plains Cemetery.

Horse Is Rescued From Mud Trap by Volunteer Firemen

A horse which had become mired in the mud along a creek bank at Camp Wahkonda on the Ruby road was rescued Sunday evening by volunteer firemen and others.

Harvey Palen of Camp Wahkonda reported today that the horse, one of 11 at the camp, suffered chills but as far as is known at present came through the ordeal without bad injury.

The animal apparently slipped into the stream when a bank caved in, and in attempting to climb from the stream bed became mired in the mud. A man in a motorboat discovered the horse when just his head was still above the mud and water, according to Palen, who was notified and, after getting a rope on him requested assistance through the county firemen's mutual aid system. The call was relayed from the Kingston Central Fire Station to the Mt. Marion-Ruby Department, which responded.

Bus Fire Is Checked; Voltage Short Blamed

The East Kingston Fire Department extinguished a fire which had begun to spread through the upholstery of an Acker Bus Line vehicle at 10:55 a. m. today.

Assistant Chief James Costello reported that the fire apparently started when a short in the voltage regulator caused a spark, which ignited gasoline on a brush with which a driver was cleaning the motor. The brush apparently was dropped when it blazed up, and ignited gasoline in a pan and then spread to the upholstery, according to the report. Firemen used a C02 extinguisher on the gasoline and a fog nozzle in putting out the smouldering upholstery.

The bus was parked near St. Colman's Hall in East Kingston at the time of the mishap.

State Fire Training Session Held Friday

Tillson, May 11—The third session in the current State Fire Training Program was held Friday evening in the Tillson Firehall with 19 volunteer firemen in attendance from Tillson, Rosendale, Binnewater and adjoining towns. Deputy Chief Harold Sanford of the Kingston Fire Department was the instructor, the subject, Forcible Entry and Ventilation. Sanford pointed out to the men that "when a human life is at stake, everything else is out of the picture," as far as property damage is concerned, and even sometimes the safety factor involved. At times volunteer firemen as well as paid firemen must take chances.

The use of the proper tools for entering a burning building was explained and illustrated. Sanford explained why buildings must be ventilated and when to ventilate, besides precautions to take when so doing.

The next session is scheduled for Friday, May 22, at 7:45 p. m., and it is hoped that more men will be able to attend. The subject for this fourth lesson will be Breathing Apparatus, and further instruction will be given in knot tying. Men are asked to bring a piece of rope about four feet in length.

Pleasant, had started to pass another truck when the latter began a left turn off the Onteora Trail. Caruso swerved to the left side of the highway, struck the shoulder, and as he was swinging back to the right side, the soda cases jounced off, according to the report. There were no personal injuries and no arrests made.

Bar Pays Tributes

Outstanding Court

Attorney Henry Klein added other words of tribute, and Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick expressed the fact that Judge Loughran was known throughout the state and nation. He made the Court of Appeals "the outstanding court of the nation," Justice Schirick said.

When Judge Loughran was nominated for the Court of Appeals, Schirick recalled, his former students from outside the district wrote "more than 5,000 letters" to persons within the district urging them to vote for their beloved professor, Schirick recalled. He also read from a number of tributes that had been made elsewhere in the state after Judge Loughran's death.

Justice Deckelman, presiding, said that although he was not as well acquainted with Judge Loughran as were the members of the Ulster County Bar, "I yield to none in my admiration for his character and ability. He lived and died a great teacher, a great judge and a great gentleman."

Justice Deckelman ordered the tributes spread on the minutes, printed in appropriate form and manner with sufficient copies for distribution to the attorneys. He also directed that, when the term of court adjourns, it does so in respect to the memory of Judge Loughran.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 11 (AP)—Steels and utilities led the stock market higher today in cautious trading.

Selected motors, chemicals and railroads also made progress. But changes were limited to minor fractions for the most part.

DuPont climbed a point at 96¾, to record one of the few wide movements. Packard was up ¼ at 5⅞ at the opening on a block of 2,200. But it soon lost half of this advance. American Telephone up ⅛ at 155⅝ on a block of 1,900 shares at the opening gun, and managed to regain this price after slipping back to its opening quotation during the first hour.

Rising fractions were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Consolidated Edison, Phelps Dodge, International Nickel, Union Carbide, General Electric, New York Central, Southern Pacific, United Air Lines and Johns-Manville.

There is another factor to be considered in either a frontal move against the enemy line or a flanking operation by amphibious la nding:

At this time, with present manpower, UN forces might be able to mount an offensive and crush Communist strength in North Korea. But it would be the military's well-known "calculated risk" in extreme form.

Simple Play Will Win Many Hands

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"This hand proves that virtue doesn't always triumph," writes Alfred Schecter of Pleasantville, N. Y.

"West opened the deuce of clubs, and I put up the ace at once and dropped the jack from my hand. I felt sure that the opening lead was a singleton and hoped to gain something by my false card.

"East took the first round of trumps with the ace, naturally enough, and sniffed in my direction as he laid down the king of clubs. He then led another club for his partner to ruff, after which I needed the rest of the tricks.

"West got out with the eight of hearts and I had to make a decision. If East had both of the red kings, there was no way to make the contract. If the red kings were split, surely West would lead the suit in which he did not hold the king. If West had both red kings it was not necessary to take the finesse.

"I therefore took the trick with dummy's ace of hearts, drew the last trump with dummy's ten, and discarded the queen and jack of hearts on dummy's remaining clubs.

"I then ran the rest of my trumps, sqeezing West. When I led my last trump, West had the king of hearts and two diamonds, with dummy discarding behind him. He chose to blank his king of diamonds, so I threw dummy's heart and took the last two tricks with the ace and queen of diamonds.

"I felt both brilliant and virtuous until I opened up the traveling score slip (the hand was played in a club duplicate game). Everybody had made four spades by the simple device of taking the heart finesse."

It's sad but true that the expert way of playing a hand isn't always necessary. Some very simple line of play may be equally successful. Nevertheless it still pays to know all the tricks because the simple little devices don't always work, and then the expert method really pays off.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Looking through the Kingston Freeman and Journal of Tuesday, July 24, 1923 I ran across the following item that should interest folks who eat bread. It said in part: "Five cent loaf is gone forever. Local bakers say that owing to increased cost of the overhead in production that the nickel loaf of bread is just a memory." It seems there was a drop in price of flour and folks thought the price of bread would come back to five cents. A pound loaf is the standard size here which in 1923 went up from five to eight cents, and never came back. At the time one of the local bakers said that they were paying from $6.75 to $7.00 a barrel of flour if bought in car lots. Of course now we are paying four times that gone but not forgotten nickle for a pound of bread.

I wonder how many members of the Order of the Eastern Star of Kingston Chapter No. 155 remember the excursion on the Steamer Odell of the Central Hudson Line on August 4th in 1923 to and from Newburgh. When I first joined the chapter we used to meet down in the Yallum building, corner Strand and Broadway. But it was after the time that they ran boat excursions. Kitty Buddington was my first Matron, Mrs. Terwilliger was secretary. We had picnics in Hasbrouck and other parks and I remember they were wonderful cooks and brought delicious refreshments like elbow macaroni with tuna fish, and chocolate brownies with nuts. Every member had a pet recipe that every one liked and usually that is what she brought to the picnic. I can imagine what good food they brought along on the boat excursions.

In August of 1923 a very heavy lightning storm hit Kingston and tore down some of the landmarks. One item interests me at this moment after reading about Ben Johnson, Strand pharmacist semi-retiring from business after more than half a century servicing his customers in his kind, sympathetic, intelligent and courteous manner. No one could make a chocolate malted milk like Ben Johnson, because he cooked his chocolate syrup fresh nearly every day during the summer and he put plenty of malt in the malted milk so it really tasted like a malted instead of just a thin milk shake. I used to get them nearly every day during the hot days and very often in the winter too. Around Ben Johnson's soda fountain one could meet dignitaries and officials from all parts of the town, all coming down to refresh themselves with his ice cream or some just to chat with Ben. He always had time to say "Hello" and spend a few minutes in conversation. He is one of the old time pharmacists who knew the old fashioned remedies from way back as well as the new ones which are appearing on the market with great rapidity.

The item about the storm of August 1923 tells about a weather vane which had hung over the entrance to Ben Johnson's drug store on the Strand for 50 years and was blown down during the severe storm that Sunday afternoon. It said that the drug store in front of which the weather vane has stood for half a century is believed to be the oldest one in Ulster county.

Why We Say--

From Spain

The Spanish once believed that men and women of nobility had different blood than others had. They bolstered the idea of aristocratic "blue blood" by pointing out blue veins in their arms.

Cops and Robbers

By FRANK TRIPP

Some folks fret too much about youngsters' cops and robbers proclivities, and too little about insidious germs planted in young minds by careless adult conversation, and by pink tinged instructors whom they are taught to trust.

The prevalent "murderous pastimes" of pistol toting ages four to twelve are nothing new. You'd have trouble finding an octogenarian who didn't pass through the same stage in his childhood.

You'd have more trouble finding one who ever heard the Bible or the Constitution of the United States questioned by his elders. Loyalty to God and to country transcended "academic freedom" in his day.

It should be parents, rather than over-indulgent government, who demand by organized uprising that schools be rid of teachers unwilling to publicly proclaim and diligently teach all-out, old-fashioned patriotism. No other is fit to teach.

MAIL COMES urging that something be done to "rescue children from guns, daggers and soldier worship." Horsefeathers!

Back as far as memory goes, children have played soldier, impersonated Custer, Daniel Boone and Jesse James, skulked behind trees, "shot" each other, crept up on Sitting Bull and scalped him with wooden tomahawks.

None who did ever became traitor or conscientious objector—not even a sissy. It takes real nerve to hold up an imaginary stage coach, and heroism to bring highwaymen and train robbers to justice.

Such boyish realism grows he men, just as fondling a doll grows kind mothers. Let 'em "shoot" to their hearts' content. But for heavens sake, keep BBs and .22s out of their reach.

AN INDULGENT father gave me a .22 rifle two years too early. Pronto Harry Stage and I beat it for West Hill. Popping at squirrels brought poor results; a farmer's cow was our size target. We let bossy have it, luckily only piercing her rump at long range. She cantered lively from the sting—and the farmer gave chase.

We fled to the woods, hid the rifle under a log and returned home by a circuitous route, to face parental wrath. We were compelled to return for the gun and to face the farmer. The treasured .22 was put away and 16 was proclaimed the age at which I could next touch it.

The very month that I reached 16 Spain blew up the Maine in Havana harbor. The .22 and I went into target practice, and I tried to enlist. I was big enough but too young; so ran away on my bicycle to Syracuse, where I could look 18 to strangers, but didn't get away with it. I slunk back home, and lived unhappy months grieving that my country needed me.

SUCH AMBITIONS grow in every boy who is allowed to live a boy's life. How much better that enthusiasms develop for the defense of freedom than that seeds of distrust and treachery, planted by half-Americans, grow a generation of doubters, temporizers, cowards. "As the twig is bent—."

Boys demand a goodly measure of excitement, bordering on the heroic. Within a few recent weeks things happened that made our grandson Teddy the envy of his gang. First his bicycle was stolen, the thief caught, and Teddy went before the grand jury, which furnished days of exciting conversation.

Next the family laundry was snatched off the back porch and Teddy became the center of a mystery. The gang turned detective; still peer at strangers' shirts and inspect peoples' clothes lines.

THEN CAME the clincher that Teddy leads the real life. Alone, midevening, from his room upstairs, he heard a noise downstairs. He phoned his grandmother from an extension and got his message across just as the burglar cut the telephone wire. Grandmother phoned the police. Before they arrived the burglar had fled with some trinkets and $40.

Well, brother, didn't that rouse the gang. Each is telling what he would have done; but Teddy sticks to the notion that he's be a dead hero any other way he did it—and he could be right.

Let's all remember that kids crave excitement. Let's help 'em get it their own harmless ways—meantime protect them against treacherous isms that are breeding distrust of those basic truths and treasured freedoms that made America great.

That's where parents' real job lies.

Valuable Burrs

In Texas alone, more than $10,000,000 worth of cotton burrs are wasted annually, it is estimated. Furfural, used as plastic ingredient, fungicide, and in the synthetic rubber industry, is among the products that could be made from them.

Simple Play Will Win Many Hands

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"This hand proves that virtue doesn't always triumph," writes Alfred Schecter of Pleasantville, N. Y.

"West opened the deuce of clubs, and I put up the ace at once and dropped the jack from my hand. I felt sure that the opening lead was a singleton and hoped to gain something by my false card.

"East took the first round of trumps with the ace, naturally enough, and sniffed in my direction as he laid down the king of clubs. He then led another club for his partner to ruff, after which I needed the rest of the tricks.

"West got out with the eight of hearts and I had to make a decision. If East had both of the red kings, there was no way to make the contract. If the red kings were split, surely West would lead the suit in which he did not hold the king. If West had both red kings it was not necessary to take the finesse.

"I therefore took the trick with dummy's ace of hearts, drew the last trump with dummy's ten, and discarded the queen and jack of hearts on dummy's remaining clubs.

"I then ran the rest of my trumps, sqeezing West. When I led my last trump, West had the king of hearts and two diamonds, with dummy discarding behind

The doc says I'm sound as a dollar,
And I'm sure that he's wise in his ways;
But this is the thing that disturbs me:
How sound is a dollar these days?
—F. Robert Becker.

"Agnes took up horseback riding to reduce. So far she's taken off 23 pounds—off the horse."

He—What are you thinking about?
She—Oh, nothing.
He—Well, get your mind off yourself.

Railroad Claim Agent — And how much would you say this colt was worth?
Farmer—Not a cent less than $500!
Claim Agent—Pedigreed stock, I suppose?
Farmer—Well, no. But you could never judge a colt like that by its parents.
Claim Agent—No. I've often noticed how crossing it with a locomotive will improve a breed!

A nation is on the decline when its married people believe that a pair beats a full house.
—Catholic Times.

By being careful today, one can live as cheaply as two could ten years ago.

Two women chattered pleasantly as they started off shopping one day.
First—That neighbor of yours, she's a bit of a gossip, isn't she?
Second—I don't like to say, but when she came home from her Florida vacation, her tongue was sunburned.

Psychoanalyst's motto: "Every man a kink."

Hubby—Aren't some of the hats women wear absurb?
Wifey—Yes, and yet when some people put them on they do look so appropriate.

Citizens may be born free; they are not born wise. Therefore, the business of education in a democracy is to make free men wise.

Shokan

Shokan, May 11—Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Richard motored from their home in Manhattan Sunday to inspect their summer home in the village center. The couple plan to build a garage and breezway on the west side of their house.

Herbert Schweringer of the Krumville road was a caller here Saturday. He was looking around for an old carriage lamp to augment the ingenious arrangement of wagon wheels and lights on the hillside lawn of his South Olive place.

Monday evening, May 11, at the American Legion home in Ashokan, the Olive public health nursing committee will present a lecture by Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr., of Kingston, together with two educational films on the detection of cancer. The public is invited.

Alonzo Haver, who died Sunday evening at his home here, had reached the age of 88 years last April 5. Brought up on a mountain farm near Samsonville and residing in Olive all his life, he had acquired a wide circle of friends in the reservoir country. He was a confirmed Izaak Walton, being especially fond of brook trout fishing, and maintained an active interest in this sport up to about three years ago.

The local blood bank officials desire to express their thanks to the following recent donors: Sarah Miller, Delia Lewis, Frances Timmerman, Natalie Rossman, Edna Bishop, Lawrence Shurter, Mavis Shurter, Edward Charles, Gertrude Henkel and Anna Madsen. Rapid depletion of the 10 pints of blood each time indicates the need for more donors, and these are urged to sign immediately with Edna Bishop, West Shokan, for the next call.

Callers here Tuesday included Addie Jansen of Lanesville. Miss Jansen on her mother's side is a great-granddaughter of Henry W. "Harry" Davis, a sawmill operator and farmer owning 310 acres in the Travers Hollow section of Boiceville a century or so ago. Henry W. was a grandfather of Millard Davis of Kerhonkson.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Black, Mr. and Mrs. George Snowden and the small twins, James and Victor Snowden, all of Winnipeg, Manitoba, were guests Tuesday and Wednesday at the home of Elder and Mrs. Arnold H. Bellows of West Hurley. It was the Canadians' first visit to the Ashokan country which they found in marked contrast to the great prairie lands surrounding their own home town. Wednesday, the Bellows' guests were shown through the historic 95-year old Old School Baptist meetinghouse here.

Ralph Elefant, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Elefant of Ashokan, brings honors to the lower village and the town of Olive by reason of his selection by the State Legion to represent Kingston High School at Boys State. Ralph, a junior classman, in qualifying for highest male scholastic merits, thus becomes one of 900 high school students who will receive a week's vacation trip to New York next June. The local youth is a grandson of Mrs. Abraham Cohen and a nephew of Frank and William Cohen, all of Kingston.

Word has reached here of the birth, April 29, of a 6½ pound son to Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Weidman of Albuquerque, N. Mex. The baby's mother before marriage was Lois Shurter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Shurter, formerly of Phoenicia and Shokan. The Weidmans were married here four years ago.

George Gulnack, former KHS student, has employment at the Neil Gauge Plant in Poughkeepsie.

Eugene McGowan, retired New York municipal employe, is a sufferer this spring from rheumatism in his leg.

Mrs. C. G. Fuller is again at her Onteora Trail place after having spent the winter months in Clearwater, Fla. Mrs. Fuller plans to sell her residence property near the Boiceville hill road.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Farrell have returned to their home in the village center following a two weeks' visit with relatives on Long Island.

Lindbergh Explores Underwater Cavern

Bower Cave, Maniposa County, Calif., May 11 (AP)—Jon Lindbergh, 20-year-old son of famed aviator Charles Lindbergh, has explored and photographed a large underwater cavern in a remote mountain area near Yosemite National Park.

Jon wearing navy "frogman's" gear, swam 150 feet under the waters of a small lake to reach Bower Cave which never before had been explored.

Jon made two dives Saturday into the grotto.

The second time he carried photographic gear in a waterproof bag. He spent more than an hour inside the cavern—described as one of the largest of its kind in the west.

His only link with safety was a thin nylon line attached to his trunks and held by another member of the party. He was accompanied by two members of the Western Speleological Institute, a research organization.

Essence of Peace

Napanoch Inter-Faith Breakfast Has Over 200 in Attendance

More than 200 employes from Napanoch Institution for Male Defective Delinquents, guards, their families and guests attended the sixth inter-faith communion-breakfast in Ellenville on Sunday and heard Edward Huben of Rosendale laud the non-secterian assemblage as "one truly American." exemplifying the spirit of brotherhood.

Links Mother's Day

The guest speaker, publicity director for the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, linked the occasion with the national observance of Mother's Day, and told the gathering of men, women and children that the "world needs the lesson we learn at our mother's knee—love—to bring peace and happiness."

Other speakers introduced by Col. Ernest Montanye as toastmaster were Major Thomas J. Hanlon, superintendent of the institution, who, in his speech of welcome referred to the breakfast as inter-family as well as inter-faith, and said it exemplified the goodwill and brotherly love among the institution's employes of all denominations; also the Rev. Daniel L. Haynes of Kingston, retired professional actor, who played The Lord in Green Pastures, when it ran in New York.

The Rev. William Coombs, Protestant minister from Ellenville gave the invocation and the benediction was pronounced by Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel, Kingston, one of the chaplains at Napanoch.

Other guests were Mayor Frank Muller of Ellenville, Justice Benjamin Lonstein of that village, Rabbi Herman Eisner of the synagogue there, Joseph Slutsky, prominent in the business, civic and religious life of the community; Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly of Kingston, former Supervisor and Mrs. James Rowe of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert DeKay of this city, Mrs. Bloom and Mrs. Huben, also visitors from New York city.

Attend Churches

Prior to the breakfast Protestants attended Communion services in the Dutch Reformed Church of Ellenville, and Catholics received the Sacrament in St. Mary's Church.

The meal was served in Masonic Temple of Wawarsing Lodge 582, F. & A.M., under direction of Captain Lloyd Wilklow, assistant superintendent of the institution. The committee on arrangements consisted of George Winsman, Harry Shapiro and James Morrow.

Over the head table hung a painting of the chaplains of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths, who sacrificed their lives to save other members of the crew when the Dorchester was sunk. Th art was done by inmates of the institution under the direction of the barber class instructor, Harry Bookman.

Brotherly Love

Major Hanlon called it a true picture of brotherly love and cited a recent incident in the Korean war where a young colored soldier saved the life of his wounded commanding officer by protecting him from the communist hordes.

In reference to Mother's Day, the major said, "You have done credit to your mothers by this exemplification today."

Calling the meeting typical American, Huben said, "Americanism means we shall give to our fellow man the same consideration we demand for ourselves; we shall not hold against him the method of homage he pays his Maker."

Lessons at Mother's Knee

He stressed that the world needs the lesson taught at "our mother's knee, love, peace and happiness, which the world needs."

Citing the decay of moral standards, Huben said, "We no longer can hide behind the screen and say it can't happen here," because "communism is slowly eating away our national strength."

Huben said the inroads of Red cold war tactics are as dangerous as armed attack, and he recalled the pleas of President Eisenhower for a return to faith in God and religion, when he took office, to bring peace to the world.

Legion Crusade

The speaker also turned to the American Legion's Back to God Crusade, and bade his listeners to bring the spirit of the breakfast back to their homes and communities.

He praised the institution's employes for their accomplishments in rehabilitation of inmates, especially since the leadership of Superintendent Hanlon began 10 years ago, and the establishment of his humanitarian program.

Using a quotation, "We are all a part of those we have met," Huben assured the guards and instructors that men sent back into the world will never forget the lessons of how to get along in society, that they learned at the institution, where old barbarous prison methods have been replaced by kindness.

God's Gift to Man

Recalling Congressional recognition of Mother's Day in 1914, the Rev. Mr. Haynes said "love and reverence are due all mothers, God's greatest gift to man." He stressed all should consider it a privilege to wait on mother . . . always keep present in your memory and in your heart."

In conclusion the Rev. Mr. Haynes sang several Negro spirituals, befitting the inter-faith breakfast.

Letters Express Children's Home Thanks for Video

Television has come to the residents of the Children's Home of Kingston through the project sponsored by Zephaniah Lodge, 131, B'nai B'rith. The set was delivered a short time ago and its appreciation has been expressed through many letters from the children to Louis W. Kantrowitz, president of B'nai B'rith, and more recently through the following letter from Frank M. White, executive director at the Home.

In thanking the members of B'nai B'rith for the "long hoped for television." White conveys the thanks of the officials of the Home as well as those of the children in the following manner:

The Children's Home
Kingston, N. Y.

Mr. Louis Kantrowitz, president,
B'nai B'rith,
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Kantrowitz and members of B'nai B'rith lodge,

We wish to express appreciation to you for our long hoped for television set.

The Children's Home has received many and various kinds of donations through the years, but frankly and honestly, your gift to us will, without question of a doubt, be the most appreciated gift by the children (and the staff) that has come our way in a long time. Your gift provides something that each and everyone of them will personally enjoy and that's what brings the "real glee" from a group of children.

Some of the children have already requested "who shall we write to and thank for our television?"—so their personal notes of appreciation will be coming your way. Our very special thanks to your president, Lou Kantrowitz, for his part in being the spokesman that resulted in this wonderful gift to us.

Gratefully yours,
FRANK M. WHITE,
Executive Director.

Daniel L. Haynes of Kingston, retired professional actor, who played The Lord in Green Pastures, when it ran in New York.

The Rev. William Coombs, Protestant minister from Ellenville gave the invocation and the benediction was pronounced by Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel, Kingston, one of the chaplains at Napanoch.

Other guests were Mayor Frank Muller of Ellenville, Justice Benjamin Lonstein of that village, Rabbi Herman Eisner of the synagogue there, Joseph Slutsky, prominent in the business, civic and religious life of the community; Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly of Kingston, former Supervisor and Mrs. James Rowe of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert DeKay of this city, Mrs. Bloom and Mrs. Huben, also visitors from New York city.

Attend Churches

Prior to the breakfast Protestants attended Communion services in the Dutch Reformed Church of Ellenville, and Catholics received the Sacrament in St. Mary's Church.

The meal was served in Masonic Temple of Wawarsing Lodge 582, F. & A.M., under direction of Captain Lloyd Wilklow, assistant superintendent of the institution. The committee on arrangements consisted of George Winsman, Harry Shapiro and James Morrow.

Over the head table hung a painting of the chaplains of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths, who sacrificed their lives to save other members of the crew when the Dorchester was sunk. Th art was done by inmates of the institution under the direction of the barber class instructor, Harry Bookman.

Brotherly Love

Major Hanlon called it a true picture of brotherly love and cited a recent incident in the Korean war where a young colored soldier saved the life of his wounded commanding officer by protecting him from the communist hordes.

In reference to Mother's Day, the major said, "You have done credit to your mothers by this exemplification today."

Calling the meeting typical American, Huben said, "Americanism means we shall give to our fellow man the same consideration we demand for ourselves; we shall not hold against him the method of homage he pays his Maker."

Lessons at Mother's Knee

He stressed that the world needs the lesson taught at "our mother's knee, love, peace and happiness, which the world needs."

Citing the decay of moral standards, Huben said, "We no longer can hide behind the screen and say it can't happen here," because "communism is slowly eating away our national strength."

Huben said the inroads of Red cold war tactics are as dangerous as armed attack, and he recalled the pleas of President Eisenhower for a return to faith in God and religion, when he took office, to bring peace to the world.

Legion Crusade

The speaker also turned to the American Legion's Back to God Crusade, and bade his listeners to bring the spirit of the breakfast back to their homes and communities.

He praised the institution's employes for their accomplishments in rehabilitation of inmates, especially since the leadership of Superintendent Hanlon began 10 years ago, and the establishment of his humanitarian program.

Using a quotation, "We are all a part of those we have met," Huben assured the guards and instructors that men sent back into the world will never forget the lessons of how to get along in society, that they learned at the institution, where old barbarous prison methods have been replaced by kindness.

God's Gift to Man

Recalling Congressional recognition of Mother's Day in 1914, the Rev. Mr. Haynes said "love and reverence are due all mothers, God's greatest gift to man." He stressed all should consider it a privilege to wait on mother . . . always keep present in your memory and in your heart."

In conclusion the Rev. Mr. Haynes sang several Negro spirituals, befitting the inter-faith breakfast.

Letters Express Children's Home Thanks for Video

Television has come to the residents of the Children's Home of Kingston through the project sponsored by Zephaniah Lodge, 131, B'nai B'rith. The set was delivered a short time ago and its appreciation has been expressed through many letters from the children to Louis W. Kantrowitz, president of B'nai B'rith, and more recently through the following letter from Frank M. White, executive director at the Home.

In thanking the members of B'nai B'rith for the "long hoped for television." White conveys the thanks of the officials of the Home as well as those of the children in the following manner:

The Children's Home
Kingston, N. Y.

Mr. Louis Kantrowitz, president,
B'nai B'rith,
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Kantrowitz and members of B'nai B'rith lodge,

We wish to express appreciation to you for our long hoped for television set.

The Children's Home has received many and various kinds of donations through the years, but frankly and honestly, your gift to us will, without question of a doubt, be the most appreciated gift by the children (and the staff) that has come our way in a long time. Your gift provides something that each and everyone of them will personally enjoy and that's what brings the "real glee" from a group of children.

Some of the children have already requested "who shall we write to and thank for our television?"—so their personal notes of appreciation will be coming your way. Our very special thanks to your president, Lou Kantrowitz, for his part in being the spokesman that resulted in this wonderful gift to us.

Gratefully yours,
FRANK M. WHITE,
Executive Director.

Some of the more significant local changes included the transfer of the Rev. George P. Werner from Grand Gorge to the First Methodist Church, Saugerties, the transfer of the Rev. John W. Nursing Mother Learns to Share Herself With Baby

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Elsa is 17.

Says she to me, "What do you think? The girl next door to us has discovered she's having a baby. She says she's going to nurse it."

"Hurrah!" I say. "What an intelligent girl."

Elsa looks at me coldly. "Sometimes," she tells me severely, "you are very reactionary, Mrs. Lawrence. The girl next door plays the piano beautifully. What's intelligent about turning herself into a cow? Don't you know that mankind only gets places by conquering nature? I think a girl who lets a baby pull her all out of shape for nine months has done enough for posterity. I know that when I have a baby I'm going to want my figure back to myself as soon as I can get it."

I'm fond of Elsa. So I say, "Babies are awfully young to be conquering nature. You skipped the fourth grade in school, didn't you?"

"Yes," Elsa says, puzzled, but what . . ."

"And in the fifth grade you had such trouble with arithmetic you had to tutor all summer, didn't you?" I ask.

I see that my guest is still wondering what I'm getting at, so I tell her. I say, "Skip long division in the fourth grade—and you may approach fractions with uncertainty in the fifth one. Nursing babies is a grade in learning to share yourself with a baby. If we skip it, we may lose some confidence we need to proceed to the next one."

It would be a pity if Elsa's attiude is shared by many of her contemporaries. To feel such distaste for the idea of sharing ourselves with a nursing baby can make motherhood a very difficult adjustment. For we human beings can't divide our physical and moral selves the way department stores separate hosiery counters from perfume ones. They are one.

If we feel distaste for sharing our physical selves with our baby, we are apt to feel it when he clamors for a share of our moral strength as well. His demands on our patience, our firmness may seem as outrageous as his demands on our body.

Nursing your baby is not the mere transfer of material food from one body to another one. That's just a minor function. Any bottle can manage it. Nursing feeds both people it involves; it nourishes the newborn mother in us as well as the bones and flesh of our baby. Though we don't always know it, what's being fed in us is our identity as the possessor of warmth and comfort for all needs.

That's why I'm for breast-feeding if we can possibly manage it. We need all the certainty of our own power it can bestow on us.

Is Sent to Hospital

On Sunday evening state police from Ellenville were called to investigate a strange man wandering in a swamp near Kerhonkson. On arrival they found Osie Lee Brice, 42, who said he came from New York, wandering in the swamp clad only in his pants. He said he had originally come from West Virginia. Efforts to locate relatives in New York city failed and Brice, who was shouting and endeavoring to extinguish a nonexisting light, was examined and under an emergency commitment sent to the New York State Hospital at Middletown.

170 Persons Collapse In New York, Capital

New York, May 11 (AP) — Some 170 persons, many of them children and teen-agers, collapsed from heat prostration yesterday during religious ceremonies here and in Washington.

The 100 victims in New York were part of a crowd estimated at 25,000 participating in a Fordham University observance of the annual World Sodality Day celebration of the Roman Catholic Church. The temperature here reached a high of 80.

An estimated 70 teen-age girls, among 5,000 students participating in a similar Sodality ceremony in Washington, collapsed in 87-degree sunshine.

Born in Albany, Mrs. Lewis who was educated at the New York State Normal College, began her radio career in 1927 as a woman's commentator on WOR in New York and eventually undertook improving radio through the National Association of Broadcasters, for whom she set up listener councils. It was in charge of women's broadcasts that she went to the UN in 1948, soon switching to her present job as coordinator.

An Author

Mrs. Lewis is a member of many national women's organizations and serves others in an advisory capacity or on public relations committees. She is a past vice-president of the Women's Advertising Club of New York, and a charter member of the committee on Women in Public Relations. Among the many awards which she has received was the Woman of Achievement for 1952, presented by Theta Sigma Phi, national journalism fraternity.

Black by Edict

The gondolas of Venice are black because of an edict passed by the great council of the city in 1562 which forbade the richly embroidered awnings that were the custom before that time, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Company M Left

was sent to Fort Hamilton where it was garrisoned until ordered to San Francisco. On August 5 the company embarked on a converted schooner, the Charles Nelson, bound for Honolulu. The schooner arrived August 14 and the company was encamped in old Kapiolani Park about five miles from Honolulu, called Camp McKinley, where it was assigned garrison duty and underwent extensive military drills. Hawaii had been annexed only a couple of days earlier.

The camp became contaminated and was moved to another site nearby designated as Camp Otis. Here typhoid fever developed with 575 cases in camp at one time. A number of men died, many of them in Company M.

Return to California

The companies were separated and isolated until October 20 when permission from the War Department was received to go to Hilo on the island of Hawaii where the company remained until December 5 at which time the protocol was signed and the company returned to Honolulu. Leaving Honolulu about December 10 the company landed in San Francisco December 20 where the different units of the regiment were sent to their home states.

Company M reached Kingston December 28, 1898, crossed the ferry, marched up Broadway to the armory and was dismissed temporarily until February 20, 1899, when it was mustered out.

Company Is Praised

In November, 1898, the company was inspected by Maj. Edward Field, acting inspector general of the Department of California who reported:

"Ten companies of the first New York volunteer infantry was reviewed at their camp on Waielae Beach, in light marching order, formed in two battalions. The passage in review was the best of any volunteer regiment I have seen since the war began and I have seen nearly all the regiments that passed through California. Salutes excellent, dress almost perfect, rear ranks strictly closed up.

"Military appearance and bearing very fine, active, clean built, well set up for volunteers.

"The arms and equipment were, considering their age, in really wonderful condition. I inspected them minutely and did not find a poor musket in the 10 companies. Many of them were faultless and almost all in first class condition. This of course refers to their care."

The report pointed out that the uniforms were, considering their wear, well cared for and generally well fitting. Belts, brasses and scabbards were in the same uniformly smart condition, many of them up to the orderly standard.

Men Well Instructed

Excellence in drill was reported, the camp scrupulously clean, the behavior and general appearance of officers and men commendable. All companies were reported well instructed in tactics "and are composed of intelligent and willing men, many of them educated and representing an excellent class in the communities where they were raised. They would make excellent field soldiers. They are young, intelligent, spirited, patriotic, especially well drilled and some who have served in the National Guard, excellent shots."

J. Allen Wood, a past commander of Colonial Camp 75 and for more than 31 years Kingston chief of police, serving from July 8, 1908, to 1939, pointed out to a Freeman reporter that Company M had been composed mostly of young men from Kingston and surrounding villages. The following served as officers when the company was organized: Captain, Robert Tompkins, Kingston; first lieutenant, David Terry, Kingston; second lieutenant, John A. Huhne, Kingston. Terry resigned September 30, 1898, in Honolulu and Huhne became first lieutenant.

Present officers of Colonial Camp 75 are Fred N. Janson, commander; Charles Stahl, senior vice commander; J. J. Bode, junior vice commander, and Coles, adjutant and quartermaster.

Members of the Camp are as follows: Coles, Terry, Thompson, Wood, Winter, Martin Anderson, Edward Balfe, J. J. Bode, Milton Israel, Humphrey Jones, Fred M. Janson, E. Krohn, H. Macholdt, Edward Ocker, Ezra Quick, O. A. Rider and C. R. Stahl.

Proclaims Armed Forces Day

While representatives of the armed forces look on, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk officially proclaims Saturday, May 16, as Armed Forces Day. Watching the ceremony (l. - r.) are Master Sergeant Eugene Archer, regular army instructor; Thomas W. Miller, chief warrant officer and personnel adjutant of the 156th Field Artillery, New York National Guard; and John Hesleitner, warrant officer, who is the administrative assistant for the 156th FA Battalion, NYNG. Nursing Mother Learns to Share Herself With Baby

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Elsa is 17.

Says she to me, "What do you think? The girl next door to us has discovered she's having a baby. She says she's going to nurse it."

"Hurrah!" I say. "What an intelligent girl."

Elsa looks at me coldly. "Sometimes," she tells me severely, "you are very reactionary, Mrs. Lawrence. The girl next door plays the piano beautifully. What's intelligent about turning herself into a cow? Don't you know that mankind only gets places by conquering nature? I think a girl who lets a baby pull her all out of shape for nine months has done enough for posterity. I know that when I have a baby I'm going to want my figure back to myself as soon as I can get it."

I'm fond of Elsa. So I say, "Babies are awfully young to be conquering nature. You skipped the fourth grade in school, didn't you?"

"Yes," Elsa says, puzzled, but what . . ."

"And in the fifth grade you had such trouble with arithmetic you had to tutor all summer, didn't you?" I ask.

I see that my guest is still wondering what I'm getting at, so I tell her. I say, "Skip long division in the fourth grade—and you may approach fractions with uncertainty in the fifth one. Nursing babies is a grade in learning to share yourself with a baby. If we skip it, we may lose some confidence we need to proceed to the next one."

It would be a pity if Elsa's attiude is shared by many of her contemporaries. To feel such distaste for the idea of sharing ourselves with a nursing baby can make motherhood a very difficult adjustment. For we human beings can't divide our physical and moral selves the way department stores separate hosiery counters from perfume ones. They are one.

If we feel distaste for sharing our physical selves with our baby, we are apt to feel it when he clamors for a share of our moral strength as well. His demands on our patience, our firmness may seem as outrageous as his demands on our body.

Nursing your baby is not the mere transfer of material food from one body to another one. That's just a minor function. Any bottle can manage it. Nursing feeds both people it involves; it nourishes the newborn mother in us as well as the bones and flesh of our baby. Though we don't always know it, what's being fed in us is our identity as the possessor of warmth and comfort for all needs.

That's why I'm for breast-feeding if we can possibly manage it. We need all the certainty of our own power it can bestow on us.

Born in Albany, Mrs. Lewis who was educated at the New York State Normal College, began her radio career in 1927 as a woman's commentator on WOR in New York and eventually undertook improving radio through the National Association of Broadcasters, for whom she set up listener councils. It was in charge of women's broadcasts that she went to the UN in 1948, soon switching to her present job as coordinator.

An Author

Mrs. Lewis is a member of many national women's organizations and serves others in an advisory capacity or on public relations committees. She is a past vice-president of the Women's Advertising Club of New York, and a charter member of the committee on Women in Public Relations. Company M Left was sent to Fort Hamilton where it was garrisoned until ordered to San Francisco. On August 5 the company embarked on a converted schooner, the Charles Nelson, bound for Honolulu. The schooner arrived August 14 and the company was encamped in old Kapiolani Park about five miles from Honolulu, called Camp McKinley, where it was assigned garrison duty and underwent extensive military drills. Hawaii had been annexed only a couple of days earlier.

The camp became contaminated and was moved to another site nearby designated as Camp Otis. Here typhoid fever developed with 575 cases in camp at one time. A number of men died, many of them in Company M.

Return to California

The companies were separated and isolated until October 20 when permission from the War Department was received to go to Hilo on the island of Hawaii where the company remained until December 5 at which time the protocol was signed and the company returned to Honolulu. Leaving Honolulu about December 10 the company landed in San Francisco December 20 where the different units of the regiment were sent to their home states.

Company M reached Kingston December 28, 1898, crossed the ferry, marched up Broadway to the armory and was dismissed temporarily until February 20, 1899, when it was mustered out.

Company Is Praised

In November, 1898, the company was inspected by Maj. Edward Field, acting inspector general of the Department of California who reported:

"Ten companies of the first New York volunteer infantry was reviewed at their camp on Waielae Beach, in light marching order, formed in two battalions. The passage in review was the best of any volunteer regiment I have seen since the war began and I have seen nearly all the regiments that passed through California. Salutes excellent, dress almost perfect, rear ranks strictly closed up.

"Military appearance and bearing very fine, active, clean built, well set up for volunteers.

"The arms and equipment were, considering their age, in really wonderful condition. I inspected them minutely and did not find a poor musket in the 10 companies. Many of them were faultless and almost all in first class condition. This of course refers to their care."

The report pointed out that the uniforms were, considering their wear, well cared for and generally well fitting. Belts, brasses and scabbards were in the same uniformly smart condition, many of them up to the orderly standard.

Men Well Instructed

Excellence in drill was reported, the camp scrupulously clean, the behavior and general appearance of officers and men commendable. All companies were reported well instructed in tactics "and are composed of intelligent and willing men, many of them educated and representing an excellent class in the communities where they were raised. They would make excellent field soldiers. They are young, intelligent, spirited, patriotic, especially well drilled and some who have served in the National Guard, excellent shots."

J. Allen Wood, a past commander of Colonial Camp 75 and for more than 31 years Kingston chief of police, serving from July 8, 1908, to 1939, pointed out to a Freeman reporter that Company M had been composed mostly of young men from Kingston and surrounding villages. The following served as officers when the company was organized: Captain, Robert Tompkins, Kingston; first lieutenant, David Terry, Kingston; second lieutenant, John A. Huhne, Kingston. Terry resigned September 30, 1898, in Honolulu and Huhne became first lieutenant.

Present officers of Colonial Camp 75 are Fred N. Janson, commander; Charles Stahl, senior vice commander; J. J. Bode, junior vice commander, and Coles, adjutant and quartermaster.

Members of the Camp are as follows: Coles, Terry, Thompson, Wood, Winter, Martin Anderson, Edward Balfe, J. J. Bode, Milton Israel, Humphrey Jones, Fred M. Janson, E. Krohn, H. Macholdt, Edward Ocker, Ezra Quick, O. A. Rider and C. R. Stahl.

Five Early Round Knockouts Highlight Amateur Boxing Card

Kithcart TKO Victim; Voss Outpoints Skinner

Amateur boxing returned to Kingston with a flurry of knockouts Saturday night but the attendance failed to come up to expectations.

Despite the modest crowd of slightly more than 500 that revelled in the sensational action produced by eight bouts, Promoter Fred Davi said he would try another card in the near future on a Thursday night.

Five of the eight contests ended in technical or clean knockouts, three of them in the first round.

Dropped In First

Smith, 120, dropped Kithcart for a count of eight with a looping right that drew blood from the Glasco A.C. boxer's mouth and had him groggy and reeling at the end of the round. Twenty-five seconds after the second round started Referee Joe Vozdik halted the one-sided action.

It was a terrific disappointment to the large number of Glasco A.C. rooters in the house, since Kithcart had handled Smith with ease in the Adirondack AAU Golden Gloves finals at Albany.

Voss Wins Main Event

Sharpshooting Jim Voss, 159, Utica, won a unanimous decision over James Skinner, 162, New York, in a slashing five-round headliner.

Voss, ringwise and advanced for an amateur, staggered his rugged New York Golden Glove opponent for a count of eight in the fourth round and had him badly whipped at the finish.

Voss, who looks like a topnotch headline attraction if the cards continue, engaged in several wild exchanges with Skinner in neutral corners, but was clearly superior when he turned on the heat.

The Utican staggered Skinner with a sharp right to the head at the bell for the fourth but the superbly conditioned New Yorker finished under full steam.

Three Locals Win

Three members of the Glasco A.C. boxing team registered impressive victories in the three-round preliminaries.

Bill Metzger, 148, Rosendale, was awarded a split decision over Joe O'Heany, 152, Albany, in the curtain raiser.

Bill Brown, 152, Schenectady, flattened Bill Fish, 149, Albany, in 45 seconds of the first. A tremendous right to the jaw spun Fish into a cartwheel.

The young lad who drew the most cheers was Bob Bridges, 133-pound Rosendale bobcat, who scored a TKO over Frank Spenzerio in 1 minute flat of the second round.

Bridges and Spenzerio hammered at each other without letup in a wild brawl in the first two minutes but Spenzerio was reeling at the finish. Bridges quickly regained the offensive in the second round and after a minute Referee Joe Vozdik figured Spenzerio had enough.

Bill Ritter, 165, Rosendale, made short shrift of Russ Barber, 168, Castleton, in 1:50 of the first round.

Barber slugged it out with Ritter in a wild exchange after the opening bell but in less than a minute it was obvious to Referee Vozdik and the fans that Barber was a badly outclassed young man.

Thomer Beats Cira

Joe Thomer, 149, New York Golden Glover, outpointed Danny Cira, 143, Utica, in the first five rounder. Cira was dropped for a nine count by a short right in the first round but rallied to make it a close fight.

Henry Smith, 142, New York, won a technical knockout over Joe Poma, 140, Utica, in 1:52 of the second round.

A flashy looking southpaw, Poma faded quickly after a fast start. He was in trouble at the end of the first round, went down from two long rights in the second. When Smith dropped Poma for the second time, Referee Vozdik intervened and called it a TKO for the New Yorker.

Officials for the card were Joe Vozdik, Saugerties, referee; Fred Eisler, Kingston, and Lou Schorr, Ellenville, judges; Sherwood Davis, Kingston, timekeeper; and Dick McCarthy, announcer.

Ed Modjeska Beaten In Five-Way Shootoff For Trapshoot Title

A 14-year-old Sparkill boy has won the Distance Handicap championship trapshoot title in a five-way playoff that involved Eddie Modjeska of Kingston.

Jeffrey Munson finished with a 98 in the regulation 100-target round and was tied with Modjeska, H. C. Jones of Fawn Grove, Pa.; S. A. Thomas of Niagara Falls and F. D. Dickas of Salem, Ohio in Sunday's 44th Annual Invitational trapshoot at Pelham Manor.

Three shootoffs were required to establish Munson as champion. Modjeska and Thomas were eliminated in the first round. Dickas lost his chance in the second and Jones was eliminated in the third round.

Port Jervis Takes Triangular Meet

Shade Maroon By Three Points On Home Track

Dittus and Tiano Cop Local Firsts

Making an impressive showing in the running events, Port Jervis High captured the triangular track meet with Kingston and Monticello Saturday at the tri-state city cinders.

The Red and Black shaded Kingston 61 5/6 points to 58 1/6, with Monticello a distant third with 20 points.

The winners earned a dead heat in the 100-yard dash and had firsts in the 880, 220, 440, mile and javelin.

Mike Tiano and Walter Quick gave Kingston outright victories in the discus and shotput. Tiano heaved the discus 120 feet, 1 inch. Quick fired the shot 39 feet 6 inches.

Ronald Dittus of Kingston tied with Pagano of Port at 8 feet 2 inches in the pole vault. Fred Jackson and Dick Besemer were involved in a triple tie with Lane of Port Jervis for first place in the high jump at 5 feet 4 inches.

Dead Heat in 100

The thrilling 100-yard duel between Kingston's Webster Henderson and Port's Gilbert was declared a dead heat by the judges. They were timed in 10.3. This turn of fate and the fact that Monticello was unable to sandwich a place in the mile tipped the balance in favor of the host runners.

Gilbert returned to capture the 220 in 22.8 with Henderson and Charlie Johnson of Kingston trailing him. Mart Jakubowski gave Kingston a second place in the mile behind Port's Caswell, but Hart and Jones of Port picked up valuable points in the third and fourth slots.

Charlie Coutant was second in the hurdles, while Bucky Miller and Casper Souers won places in the broad jump and Roger Stricker gave Kingston a 1-2 in the discus behind Mike Tiano's winning effort.

Marciano Camp Sees Pressure Too Much for Old Jersey Joe

Holland, Mich., May 11 (AP)—Rocky Marciano looks the same as usual—strong, dangerous, determined and—easy to hit.

The much-publicized nose still is in the same place. It hasn't bled for weeks. Nobody can hit it—or even see it—behind a two-pronged mask that adds a grotesque touch to the training scene.

When Rocky defends his heavyweight title against Jersey Joe Walcott at Chicago Stadium Friday night, he can be expected to fight the same type of pressure fight that finally wore down the old gent last September.

Spar mates Billy Noble and Willie Wilson have felt Rocky apply the pressure. They hit the champ but he hits back more often.

"He had me in trouble with the big gloves four or five times," said Noble after yesterday's workout. "I think he'll knock Joe out again—wear him down just like last time."

At the breakfast table in the rustic lodge near the gym he was talking about that knockdown—first of his career.

Rocky Reminisces

"I always wondered what other fellows were thinking out when I had dumped them," he said. "Now I know. I don't even remember getting hit but there I was on the deck. I said to myself 'you'd better get this guy before this happens again. It could happen.' Up to that time I never honestly thought it was possible.

"It must have been the best punch I ever took because it knocked me down. But there was no pain. Sometimes a punch stays with you. When I got hit by Carmine Vingo (who never fought after being knocked out by Marciano in 1949) the punch stayed with me until the end of the round."

In case it slips your mind, Rocky took a four-count knockdown from Walcott in the first round but got up and knocked him out in the 13th.

Marciano expects Walcott to fight like he did last time although he has been hearing plenty about Jersey Joe reverting to his old stop-and-go boxing routine.

"He might try it a couple of rounds," said Rocky. "But one punch can change any battle plan. I'll be after him and he'll be after me. I don't think it will go the distance. But, if it does, I still think I can win a decision."

Bowling Meeting

The Woman's Major League meeting scheduled tonight has been postponed until Wednesday, May 20, at 8 p. m., at the Ferraro Bowlodrome. Election of officers will be held and prize money will be distributed.

Donald Loucks, tennis coach at Florida State U., served as an instructor at West Point during World War 2.

Third Greenbrier For Sam Snead

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., May 11 (AP)—Sam Snead, playing what for him was a ragged game over his home course, still managed to beat the field yesterday and pocketed $2,000 from the Greenbrier Open golf tournament.

Snead wound up with a 72-hole total of 268 for his four days work—the highest total in the history of the five-year-old meet. But he was still 12 strokes under par for the par 70 old White course of 6,368 yards.

Second with 271 after a blistering 64 for yesterday's final round was Jack Burke, Jr., of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y. His take was $1,000.

Ben Hogan, who had been expected to make a battle of it with Snead, fired a 69 yesterday and finished in a tie for third with Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., each with a total of 272. They won $600.

Snead, complaining of a hurt hand at the start of the tournament, fired a two-under-par 68 yesterday for his highest score of the four days. His previous cards read 67, 67, 66.

It was his third straight Greenbrier victory.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

If you take the Major League averages as a yardstick you arrive at the inevitable conclusion that big time bowling slipped this season from its fabulous post war peak.

Only seven keglers negotiated a "190" average, including Johnny Ferraro who has been a "190" performer for nearly two decades. Missing from the select are a host of names you would expect to find luxuriating in the upper bracket. If we are to believe that the Bowlodrome lanes are as "soft" as some of the scoffers would try to convince you, then something happened to the sharpies.

Among them are such worthies as Ken Joseph, the Bearded Blaster; Harold Broskie, Larry Weishaupt, Tom Carlino, Lew Hymes, Charlie Manfro and Angie Ferraro. None of these distinguished gentlemen hit beyond 188. Are they slipping or has Johnny Ferraro been playing tricks with the Cornell street drives.

Analyze the Big Five and you come up with a couple of surprises. Sometime ago we nominated George Shufeldt as the "Bowler of the Year," and there were some wiseacres who sneered. But, look, there's little Georgie right up there in second place with 194.34! Does that prove a point?

And how about this Freddie Ferraro socking at a 192.22 clip in third place. He isn't supposed to have a ball. Throws a pineapple, a fadeaway, they tell me. But the pins keep falling and year after year Freddie's up there with the pack. Whatever happened to all the stylists!

• Benefit Show for Joe Walcott?

Those so airily dismissing Jersey Joe Walcott in his return bout with Rocky Marciano totally overlook the fact that the Brockton Blockbuster was inches from being a bum in their first edition.

With youth, stamina, the wallop and confidence that comes with the title on his side, Marciano is the logical choice to repeat. The fact remains, however, that Old Man Walcott has the weapons with which to accomplish what seven former heavyweight champions failed to achieve—rescale the heights.

Had the left hook which put Marciano on the seat of his britches in Philadelphia landed on the point of his chin instead of the cheekbone, the referee could have counted far into the night.

Walcott definitely had Marciano in round one—and lost him. He's almost a year older, must be slower. If he reverts to his famous cutie style, he might make trouble for the champion. but from here it looks like Walcott lost Marciano forever in that first round in Philadelphia. The prediction here is Marciano by repeat knockout.

• Of Men and Mice:

Believe it or not, platoon football saw guys graduate from college who never made a tackle. Clarence S. Rowland, regarded primarily as high school athletics benefactor, does as much for bowling in a quiet, unostentatious manner as anybody in town. They had to send an order to Jimmy Melton's automobile museum in Florida for a part to fix up "Pop" Edson's 25-year-old "Green Hornet." . . . Nate Armstrong is beginning to think that maybe the little fellow in the Little League is still the best hitter in the family. Tom McNelis of Kingston will join the sports staff of the Binghamton Press after graduating from Columbia Journalism School in June. Jerry Bush, the liquor salesman, is the only man in town who can claim a convertible with reversible colors. Louise Cassese of the Hotel Phoenicia will be hostess to French middleweight contender Pierre Langlois, Manager Jean Bretonnel and American representative G. E. Kantor upon her return next week from a month's vacation in Montana. Wonder if Leo Durocher can spare Hoyt Wilhelm for a few City League assignments. And down in Newburgh, "Bo" Gill is strapped up in a cast. No golf for a long time.

They call the Rev. Bob Richards the Vaulting Vicar wherever he goes.

The remarkable pole vaulter is a popular figure on the banquet circuit. Introduced at a dinner in Los Angeles, the toastmaster said:

"And here is the only pastor trying to get all the way to heaven on his own strength."

Stewart Pockets $6900 in Ardmore

Ardmore, Okla., May 11 (AP)—A smiling young Dallas golfer, a professional only three years, packed his clubs today and drove home with a $6,900 check in his pocket, first prize in the $21,300 Ardmore Open golf tournament and enough for a down payment on a Dallas home.

It was a big victory for Earl Stewart Jr., now the PGA's top money winner of the year with $10,850. He shot a two-over-par 282 for 72 holes on the tough 6,483-yard Dornick Hills Country Club layout.

The tournament's bonus plan upped the total prize money to $41,070, and proved a benefit for dozens of struggling young pros on the spring trail. For at least one, Leo Baigetti, Baltimore golfer who picked up $500 for scoring an eagle in yesterday's final round, it meant the difference between going home and continuing on the tour.

Baigetti wasn't one of the top 20 finishers. But with the bonus check in his pocket he would continue competing this spring instead of packing up.

Five Early Round Knockouts Highlight Amateur Boxing Card

Kithcart TKO Victim; Voss Outpoints Skinner

Amateur boxing returned to Kingston with a flurry of knockouts Saturday night but the attendance failed to come up to expectations.

Despite the modest crowd of slightly more than 500 that revelled in the sensational action produced by eight bouts, Promoter Fred Davi said he would try another card in the near future on a Thursday night.

Five of the eight contests ended in technical or clean knockouts, three of them in the first round.

Biggest surprise of the night was the stunning TKO suffered by Eddie Kithcart, 118 pound Adirondack AAU Novice champion, at the hands of Noble Smith of Albany.

Dropped In First

Smith, 120, dropped Kithcart for a count of eight with a looping right that drew blood from the Glasco A.C. boxer's mouth and had him groggy and reeling at the end of the round. Twenty-five seconds after the second round started Referee Joe Vozdik halted the one-sided action.

It was a terrific disappointment to the large number of Glasco A.C. rooters in the house, since Kithcart had handled Smith with ease in the Adirondack AAU Golden Gloves finals at Albany.

Voss Wins Main Event

Sharpshooting Jim Voss, 159, Utica, won a unanimous decision over James Skinner, 162, New York, in a slashing five-round headliner.

Voss, ringwise and advanced for an amateur, staggered his rugged New York Golden Glove opponent for a count of eight in the fourth round and had him badly whipped at the finish.

Voss, who looks like a topnotch headline attraction if the cards continue, engaged in several wild exchanges with Skinner in neutral corners, but was clearly superior when he turned on the heat.

The Utican staggered Skinner with a sharp right to the head at the bell for the fourth but the superbly conditioned New Yorker finished under full steam.

Three Locals Win

Three members of the Glasco A.C. boxing team registered impressive victories in the three-round preliminaries.

Bill Metzger, 148, Rosendale, was awarded a split decision over Joe O'Heany, 152, Albany, in the curtain raiser.

Bill Brown, 152, Schenectady, flattened Bill Fish, 149, Albany, in 45 seconds of the first. A tremendous right to the jaw spun Fish into a cartwheel.

The young lad who drew the most cheers was Bob Bridges, 133-pound Rosendale bobcat, who scored a TKO over Frank Spenzerio in 1 minute flat of the second round.

Bridges and Spenzerio hammered at each other without letup in a wild brawl in the first two minutes but Spenzerio was reeling at the finish. Bridges quickly regained the offensive in the second round and after a minute Referee Joe Vozdik figured Spenzerio had enough.

Bill Ritter, 165, Rosendale, made short shrift of Russ Barber, 168, Castleton, in 1:50 of the first round.

Barber slugged it out with Ritter in a wild exchange after the opening bell but in less than a minute it was obvious to Referee Vozdik and the fans that Barber was a badly outclassed young man.

Thomer Beats Cira

Joe Thomer, 149, New York Golden Glover, outpointed Danny Cira, 143, Utica, in the first five rounder. Cira was dropped for a nine count by a short right in the first round but rallied to make it a close fight.

Henry Smith, 142, New York, won a technical knockout over Joe Poma, 140, Utica, in 1:52 of the second round.

A flashy looking southpaw, Poma faded quickly after a fast start. He was in trouble at the end of the first round, went down from two long rights in the second. When Smith dropped Poma for the second time, Referee Vozdik intervened and called it a TKO for the New Yorker.

Officials for the card were Joe Vozdik, Saugerties, referee; Fred Eisler, Kingston, and Lou Schorr, Ellenville, judges; Sherwood Davis, Kingston, timekeeper; and Dick McCarthy, announcer.

Ed Modjeska Beaten In Five-Way Shootoff For Trapshoot Title

A 14-year-old Sparkill boy has won the Distance Handicap championship trapshoot title in a five-way playoff that involved Eddie Modjeska of Kingston.

Jeffrey Munson finished with a 98 in the regulation 100-target round and was tied with Modjeska, H. C. Jones of Fawn Grove, Pa.; S. A. Thomas of Niagara Falls and F. D. Dickas of Salem, Ohio in Sunday's 44th Annual Invitational trapshoot at Pelham Manor.

Three shootoffs were required to establish Munson as champion. Modjeska and Thomas were eliminated in the first round. Dickas lost his chance in the second and Jones was eliminated in the third round.

Syracuse Five Takes Over Lead In State Tenpins

Rochester, May 11 (AP)—Felix Bax of Niagara Falls today boasted the only 700 scratch series of the New York State Men's Bowling tournament.

Bax's 702 Saturday, with 48 pins handicap, gave him the lead in the singles division, four pins better than Pat Clark of Elmira, the previous leader.

His games were 237, 222 and 243—23 better than the previous high scratch series.

Pastime A.C. of Syracuse took the five-man team lead last night with 2,715 scratch and 444 pins handicap for 3,159 total. Republic Steel team 2 of Buffalo rolled a 3,125 handicap score Saturday that took second for a day and stands now as third. Rome's Engineers, the previous leaders, now are second with 3,146.

H. Linkner and M. Frey of Buffalo posted the only doubles change with 1,231 scratch and 105 handicap for 1,336 total.

Port Jervis Takes Triangular Meet

Shade Maroon By Three Points On Home Track

Dittus and Tiano Cop Local Firsts

Making an impressive showing in the running events, Port Jervis High captured the triangular track meet with Kingston and Monticello Saturday at the tri-state city cinders.

The Red and Black shaded Kingston 61 5/6 points to 58 1/6, with Monticello a distant third with 20 points.

The winners earned a dead heat in the 100-yard dash and had firsts in the 880, 220, 440, mile and javelin.

Mike Tiano and Walter Quick gave Kingston outright victories in the discus and shotput. Tiano heaved the discus 120 feet, 1 inch. Quick fired the shot 39 feet 6 inches.

Ronald Dittus of Kingston tied with Pagano of Port at 8 feet 2 inches in the pole vault. Fred Jackson and Dick Besemer were involved in a triple tie with Lane of Port Jervis for first place in the high jump at 5 feet 4 inches.

Dead Heat in 100

The thrilling 100-yard duel between Kingston's Webster Henderson and Port's Gilbert was declared a dead heat by the judges. They were timed in 10.3. This turn of fate and the fact that Monticello was unable to sandwich a place in the mile tipped the balance in favor of the host runners.

Gilbert returned to capture the 220 in 22.8 with Henderson and Charlie Johnson of Kingston trailing him. Mart Jakubowski gave Kingston a second place in the mile behind Port's Caswell, but Hart and Jones of Port picked up valuable points in the third and fourth slots.

Charlie Coutant was second in the hurdles, while Bucky Miller and Casper Souers won places in the broad jump and Roger Stricker gave Kingston a 1-2 in the discus behind Mike Tiano's winning effort.

Marciano Camp Sees Pressure Too Much for Old Jersey Joe

Holland, Mich., May 11 (AP)—Rocky Marciano looks the same as usual—strong, dangerous, determined and—easy to hit.

The much-publicized nose still is in the same place. It hasn't bled for weeks. Nobody can hit it—or even see it—behind a two-pronged mask that adds a grotesque touch to the training scene.

When Rocky defends his heavyweight title against Jersey Joe Walcott at Chicago Stadium Friday night, he can be expected to fight the same type of pressure fight that finally wore down the old gent last September.

Spar mates Billy Noble and Willie Wilson have felt Rocky apply the pressure. They hit the champ but he hits back more often.

"He had me in trouble with the big gloves four or five times," said Noble after yesterday's workout. "I think he'll knock Joe out again—wear him down just like last time."

Rocky figures the same way although the memory of that first round knockdown still is green.

Rocky Reminisces

"I always wondered what other fellows were thinking out when I had dumped them," he said. "Now I know. I don't even remember getting hit but there I was on the deck. I said to myself 'you'd better get this guy before this happens again. It could happen.' Up to that time I never honestly thought it was possible.

"It must have been the best punch I ever took because it knocked me down. But there was no pain. Sometimes a punch stays with you. When I got hit by Carmine Vingo (who never fought after being knocked out by Marciano in 1949) the punch stayed with me until the end of the round."

In case it slips your mind, Rocky took a four-count knockdown from Walcott in the first round but got up and knocked him out in the 13th.

Marciano expects Walcott to fight like he did last time although he has been hearing plenty about Jersey Joe reverting to his old stop-and-go boxing routine.

"He might try it a couple of rounds," said Rocky. "But one punch can change any battle plan. I'll be after him and he'll be after me. I don't think it will go the distance. But, if it does, I still think I can win a decision."

Bowling Meeting

The Woman's Major League meeting scheduled tonight has been postponed until Wednesday, May 20, at 8 p. m., at the Ferraro Bowlodrome. Election of officers will be held and prize money will be distributed.

Donald Loucks, tennis coach at Florida State U., served as an instructor at West Point during World War 2.

Third Greenbrier For Sam Snead

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., May 11 (AP)—Sam Snead, playing what for him was a ragged game over his home course, still managed to beat the field yesterday and pocketed $2,000 from the Greenbrier Open golf tournament.

Snead wound up with a 72-hole total of 268 for his four days work—the highest total in the history of the five-year-old meet. But he was still 12 strokes under par for the par 70 old White course of 6,368 yards.

Second with 271 after a blistering 64 for yesterday's final round was Jack Burke, Jr., of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y. His take was $1,000.

Ben Hogan, who had been expected to make a battle of it with Snead, fired a 69 yesterday and finished in a tie for third with Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., each with a total of 272. They won $600.

Snead, complaining of a hurt hand at the start of the tournament, fired a two-under-par 68 yesterday for his highest score of the four days. His previous cards read 67, 67, 66.

It was his third straight Greenbrier victory.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

If you take the Major League averages as a yardstick, you arrive at the inevitable conclusion that big time bowling slipped this season from its fabulous post war peak.

Only seven keglers negotiated a "190" average, including Johnny Ferraro who has been a "190" performer for nearly two decades. Missing from the select are a host of names you would expect to find luxuriating in the upper bracket. If we are to believe that the Bowlodrome lanes are as "soft" as some of the scoffers would try to convince you, then something happened to the sharpies.

Among them are such worthies as Ken Joseph, the Bearded Blaster; Harold Broskie, Larry Weishaupt, Tom Carlino, Lew Hymes, Charlie Manfro and Angie Ferraro. None of these distinguished gentlemen hit beyond 188. Are they slipping or has Johnny Ferraro been playing tricks with the Cornell street drives.

Analyze the Big Five and you come up with a couple of surprises. Sometime ago we nominated George Shufeldt as the "Bowler of the Year," and there were some wiseacres who sneered. But, look, there's little Georgie right up there in second place with 194.34! Does that prove a point?

And how about this Freddie Ferraro socking at a 192.22 clip in third place. He isn't supposed to have a ball. Throws a pineapple, a fadeaway, they tell me. But the pins keep falling and year after year Freddie's up there with the pack. Whatever happened to all the stylists!

• Benefit Show for Joe Walcott?

Those so airily dismissing Jersey Joe Walcott in his return bout with Rocky Marciano totally overlook the fact that the Brockton Blockbuster was inches from being a bum in their first edition.

With youth, stamina, the wallop and confidence that comes with the title on his side, Marciano is the logical choice to repeat. The fact remains, however, that Old Man Walcott has the weapons with which to accomplish what seven former heavyweight champions failed to achieve—rescale the heights.

Had the left hook which put Marciano on the seat of his britches in Philadelphia landed on the point of his chin instead of the cheekbone, the referee could have counted far into the night.

Walcott definitely had Marciano in round one—and lost him. He's almost a year older, must be slower. If he reverts to his famous cutie style, he might make trouble for the champion, but from here it looks like Walcott lost Marciano forever in that first round in Philadelphia. The prediction here is Marciano by repeat knockout.

• Of Men and Mice:

Believe it or not, platoon football saw guys graduate from college who never made a tackle. Clarence S. Rowland, regarded primarily as high school athletics benefactor, does as much for bowling in a quiet, unostentatious manner as anybody in town. They had to send an order to Jimmy Melton's automobile museum in Florida for a part to fix up "Pop" Edson's 25-year-old "Green Hornet." . . . Nate Armstrong is beginning to think that maybe the little fellow in the Little League is still the best hitter in the family. Tom McNelis of Kingston will join the sports staff of the Binghamton Press after graduating from Columbia Journalism School in June. Jerry Bush, the liquor salesman, is the only man in town who can claim a convertible with reversible colors. Louise Cassese of the Hotel Phoenicia will be hostess to French middleweight contender Pierre Langlois, Manager Jean Bretonnel and American representative G. E. Kantor upon her return next week from a month's vacation in Montana. Wonder if Leo Durocher can spare Hoyt Wilhelm for a few City League assignments. And down in Newburgh, "Bo" Gill is strapped up in a cast. No golf for a long time.

They call the Rev. Bob Richards the Vaulting Vicar wherever he goes.

The remarkable pole vaulter is a popular figure on the banquet circuit. Introduced at a dinner in Los Angeles, the toastmaster said:

"And here is the only pastor trying to get all the way to heaven on his own strength."

Stewart Pockets $6900 in Ardmore

Ardmore, Okla., May 11 (AP)—A smiling young Dallas golfer, a professional only three years, packed his clubs today and drove home with a $6,900 check in his pocket, first prize in the $21,300 Ardmore Open golf tournament and enough for a down payment on a Dallas home.

It was a big victory for Earl Stewart Jr., now the PGA's top money winner of the year with $10,850. He shot a two-over-par 282 for 72 holes on the tough 6,483-yard Dornick Hills Country Club layout.

The tournament's bonus plan upped the total prize money to $41,070, and proved a benefit for dozens of struggling young pros on the spring trail. For at least one, Leo Baigetti, Baltimore golfer who picked up $500 for scoring an eagle in yesterday's final round, it meant the difference between going home and continuing on the tour.

Baigetti wasn't one of the top 20 finishers. But with the bonus check in his pocket he would continue competing this spring instead of packing up.

Athletics and Phillies Can't Find the Rabbit

They Can't Buy a Hit These Days

By JOE REICHLER
Associate Press Sports Writer

If anybody has put the rabbit into the baseballs, it's news to the Philadelphia Athletics and Phillies.

While nearly every other club was blasting the ball out of the park yesterday, the two Philadelphia clubs were held to only two extra base hits in three games.

Consequently, it is not surprising that the Washington Senators dumped the Athletics in both ends of a doubleheader, 8-0 and 6-2, while the Brooklyn Dodgers wrested the National League lead from the Phillies with a 5-0 triumph. The A's twin losses were their fifth and sixth straight setbacks.

Bob Porterfield permitted the A's just one hit in the opener, a seventh inning single by Eddie Joost. That gave Manager Jimmy Dyke's light-hitting crew the unenviable distinction of being handcuffed with no hits, two hits and one hit in a space of four games.

In contrast to the slumbering Philadelphia bats, those of the other clubs were really alive.

28 Homers Hit

A total of 28 home runs were bashed yesterday. They included two each by Cleveland's Al Rosen and Cincinnati's Andy Seminick, a grand slammer by Indians' Ray Boone and three pinch hit homers by Bobby Hoffman of the New York Giants, Del Wilber of the Boston Red Sox and Grant Dunlap of the St. Louis Cards.

Four Cleveland homers accounted for all but two of the dozen runs the Indians tallied in the final two innings to rout the St. Louis Browns, 12-3. Rosen snapped Virgil Trucks' seven-inning shutout skein with his first round tripper in the eighth. Relief pitcher Dave Hoskins, Boone and Rosen again homered in the eight-run ninth.

Indians Take Lead

The victory boosted the Indians into the American League lead by two percentage points over the Yankees despite New York's half-game margin in games won and lost.

The Yankees didn't hit any homers but they collected 14 safeties to down the Red Sox, 7-4. Vic Raschi relieved starter Allie Reynolds for New York and was credited with the victory.

Detroit shortstop Harvey Kuenn hit his first major league home run to help the Tigers defeat Chicago, 8-6 in the first game of their doubleheader. The White Sox took the second game, 10-5.

Homers by Clyde Vollmer and Porterfield off loser Harry Byrd accounted for five Washington runs in the Senators' first win over the Athletics. Jim Busby and Jack Jensen connected for Washington in the second game.

The circuit clout also played a prominent role in the Giants' sweep of two games from Pittsburgh, 4-0 and 3-2. Don Mueller hit a solo homer and Davey Williams' a three-runner off Murry Dickson in the first game as Sal Maglie spun a three-hit shutout. Hofman's pinch hit homer in the ninth snapped a 2-2 tie. Daryl Spencer also homered for the Giants.

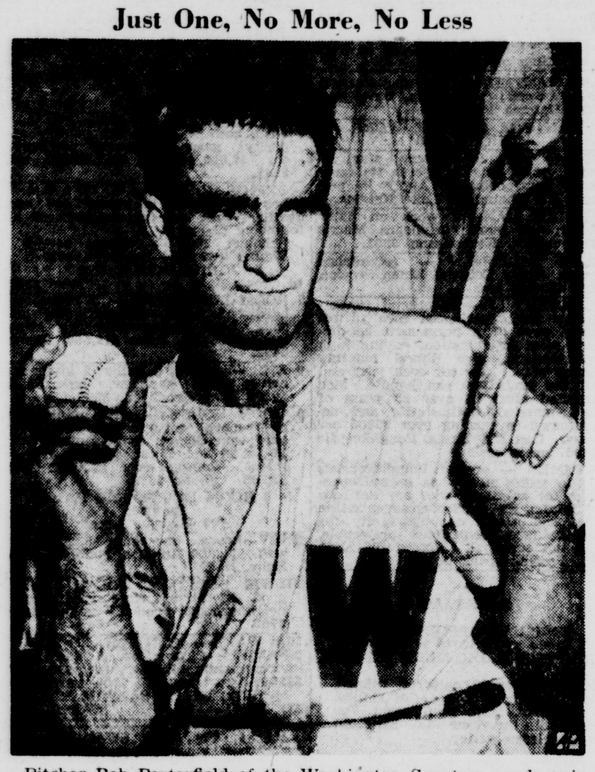

Campanella on Spree

Roy Campanella, the hottest hitter in the majors, drove in all Brooklyn's runs with a homer and a double off Karl Drews of Philadelphia. In the meantime, young Billy Loes blanked the Phils on six singles. Campanella now has 10 homers and 38 RBI's in 21 games.

Cincinnati got only five hits off Vinegar Bend Mizell of the Cardinals but three were home runs and the Redlegs won the opener 4-2. Besides Seminick's two homers there was another by Jim Greengrass. The Redlegs also won the nightcap, 5-2, as Bob Borkowski chipped in with a circuit wallop.

Max Surkont and Don Liddle pitched the Milwaukee Braves to a double win over the Chicago Cubs, 6-2 and 4-1. Liddle, with Milwaukee of the American Association last year, hurled a two-hitter (both by Roy Smalley) in his major league starting debut.

Just One, No More, No Less

Pitcher Bob Porterfield of the Washington Senators wryly raises one finger in the dressing room to signify he hurled a one-hitter in the opener of a twin bill with the Philadelphia Athletics, in Philadelphia. Porterfield was cheated out of a no-hitter by a seventh inning single by Eddie Joost. But Porterfield wasn't too dejected. "We won the game and that's what counts," he said. Washington won 8-0.

Lazzeri Was No Fool, No Money Left, So He Took the Watch

In this era of plushy salaries baseball players don't have to hustle for nickels and dimes. But it was not always so.

Oscar Vitt who was managing Salt Lake City back in the 20's recalls a hot pennant battle with San Francisco.

"In the second game of the series, Lefty O'Doul knocked out a terrific home run that put us ahead. The fans went crazy and started tossing money out onto the field. And while Lefty is picking up the coin, Tony Lazzeri comes up and hits one even further.

"By this time the fans go wild. Money is being tossed from the stands like raindrops. We had to stop the game so that the boys could pick up the money.

"One fan was so disappointed that he had run out of coin that he called Lazzeri over to the stands, explained his predica- and asked Tony if he would please accept his watch instead. Tony did."

J. Ferraro's 200 Average Highest in Major League

Has 6-Point Edge Over Shufeldt

Johnny Ferraro is still far and away the city's No. 1 kegler.

His brilliant 200.38 average for 81 games in the Ferraro Major League outdistanced his nearest competitor by almost six percentage points.

George Shufeldt was the surprise runnerup with 194.34 for 87 sets, with Fred Ferraro hitting 192.22 for third place and veteran Randy Kelder fourth at 190.82.

Chris Gallo, outstanding exponent of the youth movement, rounded out the Big Five with 190.75. Two others crashed the select circle—Larry Petersen, Jr., the service returnee who tied Gallo to the pin— and George Robinson, league secretary with 190.60.

Hymes Shoes snatched the league title on the last night's play by a one-game margin over Elston Sports Shop, with 60 wins and 30 losses. The Hymes also cracked high team triple of 3058.

Jones Dairy rolled 1100 for high team solo and Harry Wilber's 279 topped the individuals. Larry Weishaupt's 746 copped high three.

Cincinnati Kegler Second in Petersen

Chicago, May 11 (AP)—A Cincinnati bowler with a 195 average in his own league put himself in line for a $5,000 prize in the Petersen Classic, an event concurrent with American Bowling Congress tournament.

Robert Perry, 27, posted 1645 on games of 197, 277, 231, 204, 151, 163, 246 and 176 Sunday.

The Petersen meet ends next Sunday.

Perry fell four pins short of first place, held by Ruby Pugel of Milwaukee since March 14. If Pugel's 1649 holds up another week it's good for $10,000 first prize.

Relative to the additional construction and alteration to the present school building, Clark said that the sealed bids received by various contractors would be opened at a public meeting Tuesday, May 12, at 8 p. m., in the Tillson school.

All of the discussions which took place at the meeting were recorded on a tape recording machine for future reference, this being the first time such a step had been taken to acurately record statements by those attending the annual school meeting.

It was voted to send high school pupils again next school year to Kingston High School. Teachers for the coming term will be Miss Charlotte Kolb of Kingston, Mrs. Henry DuBois of New Paltz and Mrs. R. Craft of Kingston.

Driver Will Face Manslaughter in Deaths of Three

Darien, Conn., May 11 (AP)—Two sisters were killed instantly and a third woman fatally injured when the car in which they were riding crashed into a tree here Sunday.

Killed in the crash were Carmella Sabia, 24, and her sister, Mrs. Marie Sabia Margewicz, 27, both of Stamford. The third victim, Miss Margaret Van Houten, 21, died in the Stamford Hospital 25 hours after the accident.

The driver of the car was identified by police as James D. Finley, 25, also of Stamford. He escaped with lacerations of the head and fractured ribs.

Police Sergeant Harold Curtis said the car was traveling in Christie Hill road near Glendale avenue when Finley lost control. Curtis said that the car swerved off the road, blew a rear tire and caromed off a tree before it crashed into a clump of large trees.

Curtis quoted Finley as saying he had attended a wedding in Stamford where he met the three women. They drove to Port Chester, N. Y., and were driving around when the accident occ

Athletics and Phillies Can't Find the Rabbit

They Can't Buy a Hit These Days

By JOE REICHLER
Associate Press Sports Writer

If anybody has put the rabbit into the baseballs, it's news to the Philadelphia Athletics and Phillies.

While nearly every other club was blasting the ball out of the park yesterday, the two Philadelphia clubs were held to only two extra base hits in three games.

Consequently, it is not surprising that the Washington Senators dumped the Athletics in both ends of a doubleheader, 8-0 and 6-2, while the Brooklyn Dodgers wrested the National League lead from the Phillies with a 5-0 triumph. The A's twin losses were their fifth and sixth straight setbacks.

Bob Porterfield permitted the A's just one hit in the opener, a seventh inning single by Eddie Joost. That gave Manager Jimmy Dyke's light-hitting crew the unenviable distinction of being handcuffed with no hits, two hits and one hit in a space of four games.

In contrast to the slumbering Philadelphia bats, those of the other clubs were really alive.

28 Homers Hit

A total of 28 home runs were bashed yesterday. They included two each by Cleveland's Al Rosen and Cincinnati's Andy Seminick, a grand slammer by Indians' Ray Boone and three pinch hit homers by Bobby Hoffman of the New York Giants, Del Wilber of the Boston Red Sox and Grant Dunlap of the St. Louis Cards.

Four Cleveland homers accounted for all but two of the dozen runs the Indians tallied in the final two innings to rout the St. Louis Browns, 12-3. Rosen snapped Virgil Trucks' seven-inning shutout skein with his first round tripper in the eighth. Relief pitcher Dave Hoskins, Boone and Rosen again homered in the eight-run ninth.

Indians Take Lead

The victory boosted the Indians into the American League lead by two percentage points over the Yankees despite New York's half-game margin in games won and lost.

The Yankees didn't hit any homers but they collected 14 safeties to down the Red Sox, 7-4. Vic Raschi relieved starter Allie Reynolds for New York and was credited with the victory.

Detroit shortstop Harvey Kuenn hit his first major league home run to help the Tigers defeat Chicago, 8-6 in the first game of their doubleheader. The White Sox took the second game, 10-5.

Homers by Clyde Vollmer and Porterfield off loser Harry Byrd accounted for five Washington runs in the Senators' first win over the Athletics. Jim Busby and Jack Jensen connected for Washington in the second game.

The circuit clout also played a prominent role in the Giants' sweep of two games from Pittsburgh, 4-0 and 3-2. Don Mueller hit a solo homer and Davey Williams' a three-runner off Murry Dickson in the first game as Sal Maglie spun a three-hit shutout. Hofman's pinch hit homer in the ninth snapped a 2-2 tie. Daryl Spencer also homered for the Giants.

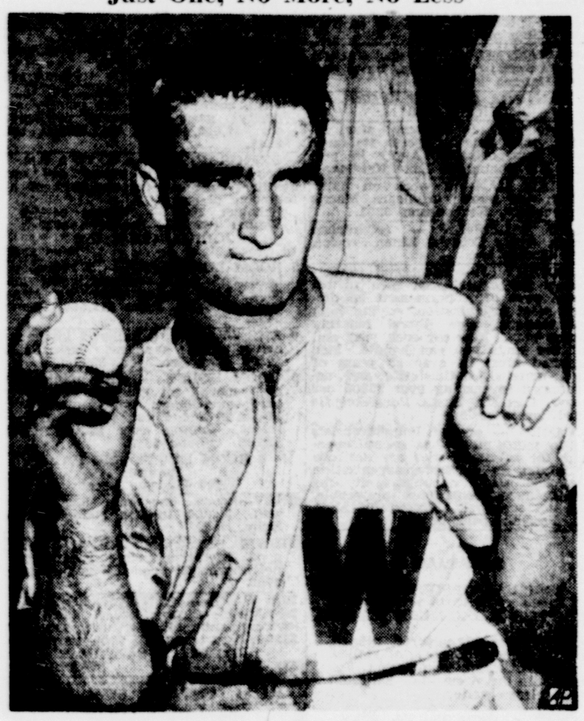

Campanella on Spree

Roy Campanella, the hottest hitter in the majors, drove in all Brooklyn's runs with a homer and a double off Karl Drews of Philadelphia. In the meantime, young Billy Loes blanked the Phils on six singles. Campanella now has 10 homers and 38 RBI's in 21 games.

Cincinnati got only five hits off Vinegar Bend Mizell of the Cardinals but three were home runs and the Redlegs won the opener 4-2. Besides Seminick's two homers there was another by Jim Greengrass. The Redlegs also won the nightcap, 5-2, as Bob Borkowski chipped in with a circuit wallop.

Max Surkont and Don Liddle pitched the Milwaukee Braves to a double win over the Chicago Cubs, 6-2 and 4-1. Liddle, with Milwaukee of the American Association last year, hurled a two-hitter (both by Roy Smalley) in his major league starting debut.

Just One, No More, No Less

Pitcher Bob Porterfield of the Washington Senators wryly raises one finger in the dressing room to signify he hurled a one-hitter in the opener of a twin bill with the Philadelphia Athletics, in Philadelphia. Porterfield was cheated out of a no-hitter by a seventh inning single by Eddie Joost. But Porterfield wasn't too dejected. "We won the game and that's what counts," he said. Washington won 8-0.

Lazzeri Was No Fool, No Money Left, So He Took the Watch

In this era of plushy salaries baseball players don't have to hustle for nickels and dimes. But it was not always so.

Oscar Vitt who was managing Salt Lake City back in the 20's recalls a hot pennant battle with San Francisco.

"In the second game of the series, Lefty O'Doul knocked out a terrific home run that put us ahead. The fans went crazy and started tossing money out onto the field. And while Lefty is picking up the coin, Tony Lazzeri comes up and hits one even further.

"By this time the fans go wild. Money is being tossed from the stands like raindrops. We had to stop the game so that the boys could pick up the money.

"One fan was so disappointed that he had run out of coin that he called Lazzeri over to the stands, explained his predica- and asked Tony if he would please accept his watch instead. Tony did."

Softball Pilots To Map Schedule At Meeting

City Softball League managers of nine teams will meet at 8:45 tonight at the Recreation Center to draw up the 1953 schedule for the season opening on Monday, May 18.

Games will be scheduled on Monday and Wednesday evenings. Three new teams have entered in addition to six holdovers. The Town of Esopus American Legion post has entered a team and will play home games at Ross Park in Port Ewen.

Bill Mahoney has been re-elected president, with Andrew Murphy III re-named secretary and Harry L. Edson, treasurer. Ed Cherny of Rosendale was named to the newly-created vice-presidential post.

The schedule will embrace two rounds and a Shaughnessy playoff.

owed mothers in New York were receiving benefits.

Payments to retired workers in New York totaled $180,282,000 in 1952, and payments to their dependents (wives and children) were $27,136,000. Payments to survivors of deceased insured workers amounted to $67,813,000 in monthly benefits and $7,948,000 in lump sums.

Average Is $51.25

The average amount of old-age insurance payments to retired workers residing in New York was $51.25. This compares with an average of $49.25 for the nation as a whole. O'Connor pointed out that since the amount of old-age and survivors insurance payments depends on an individual's average earnings in covered employment there are variations in the amount of benefits paid to different people.

Over the nation about 19.7 per cent of retired workers who are receiving payments get the minimum retirement benefit of $25 per month and 22.3 per cent receive from $65 to the maximum payment of $85. In New York, 15.5 per cent receive the minimum amount of $23 monthly and 24.7 per cent receive from $65 to $85.

Money to pay the benefits comes from the social security tax on earnings up to $3,600 a year. Employes and employers each pay 1½ per cent and self-employed people pay 2¼ per cent. These rates are scheduled to increase to 2 per cent for employes and employers, and 3 per cent for self-employed people, on January 1, 1954.

Dewey, Legislature

dations are certain to run into stiff opposition in the Senate and Assembly. The Governor has given no hint as to how far he will go in supporting the commission's program.

In its latest report, the commission urged:

1. Establishment of a state-wide code of minimum standards for local police departments. The standards would be similar to those used by the state police and large-city departments. Basic training courses also would be required.

2. Expansion of the governor's power to remove local officials for misconduct or malfeasance in office.

3. Adoption of a uniform jury system in the 57 counties outside New York city. The system would include standard qualifications for jurors and the setting up of a commissioner of jurors in each county.

4. Enlarging of the state police force, with emphasis placed on the Bureau of Criminal Investigation. The present 1,200-member limit was raised from 900 by the 1953 legislature and approved by Dewey.

5. Authorization for trials to be shifted from one county to another at the request of the prosecuting attorney.

6. A law requiring all proceedings in matters pending before an extraordinary, special or trial term of State Supreme Court, convened in special grand jury probes, be argued and considered before the justice presiding over the special session.

7. Repeal of all provisions for the immunity of witnesses in civil actions or proceedings to which only private persons are parties.

8. Adoption of a uniform procedure to be followed in all cases where a law provides immunity for a witness who is compelled to testify.

9. Retention of the "traditional policy" under which state police refrain from moving into cities for local law enforcement or investigations, except at the request of local officials. The U. S. Senate's Kefauver Crime Committee criticized the state for this policy in its hearings in New York city in 1951.

In its first report, submitted to the governor and the legislature last Jan. 26, the commission recommended that a permanent anti-crime agency be created in the executive department. Such an agency, it said, "would have as its continuing function the investigation of the relationship between crime and government."

First Lighthouse Built

The first lighthouse was the Pharos Light, built in Alexandria, near the mouth of the Nile. Completed under Ptolomy II, about 200 B.C., it was in active use for more than 1,400 years.

Nine Persons

were piled right down on the house. Those trees must have kept the house from blowing away."

Five farms were damaged by another tornado in Clayton county in the northeastern part of the state.

No one was injured or killed when two tornadoes hit a residential district near the fairgrounds in the west central Arkansas city of Russellville. About 40 homes in the area suffered heavy roof damage.

Several small twisters hit southeastern Kansas towns early Sunday, damaging farms and summer homes. There were no casualties.

Spotters Will Be Featured on TV

Mrs. George Dewey Logan, supervisor of the Kingston post, has been notified by the White Plains filter center that the Ground Observer Corps will be featured during an hour-long television program Tuesday.

The program is the Kate Smith Hour on the National Broadcasting Company's television network from 4 to 5 p. m., May 12. In the New York area, it may be viewed on WNBT, Channel 4.

Mrs. Logan also revealed today that the local post is "badly in need" of men to serve as spotters between 2 and 6 a. m. These hours, she noted, are among the most critical for air attacks. The post has recently lost three men because they moved from the community, and others have had to be excused for illness, she pointed out. Volunteer firemen can serve, Mrs. Logan said.

The post also can use some housewives able to serve shifts from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Volunteers serve one two-hour shift per week.

owed mothers in New York were receiving benefits.

Payments to retired workers in New York totaled $180,282,000 in 1952, and payments to their dependents (wives and children) were $27,136,000. Payments to survivors of deceased insured workers amounted to $67,813,000 in monthly benefits and $7,948,000 in lump sums.

Average Is $51.25

The average amount of old-age insurance payments to retired workers residing in New York was $51.25. This compares with an average of $49.25 for the nation as a whole. O'Connor pointed out that since the amount of old-age and survivors insurance payments depends on an individual's average earnings in covered employment there are variations in the amount of benefits paid to different people.

Over the nation about 19.7 per cent of retired workers who are receiving payments get the minimum retirement benefit of $25 per month and 22.3 per cent receive from $65 to the maximum payment of $85. In New York, 15.5 per cent receive the minimum amount of $25 monthly and 24.7 per cent receive from $65 to $85.

Money to pay the benefits comes from the social security tax on earnings up to $3,600 a year. Employes and employers each pay 1½ per cent and self-employed people pay 2¼ per cent. These rates are scheduled to increase to 2 per cent for employes and employers, and 3 per cent for self-employed people, on January 1, 1954.

Dewey, Legislature

dations are certain to run into stiff opposition in the Senate and Assembly. The Governor has given no hint as to how far he will go in supporting the commission's program.

In its latest report, the commission urged:

1. Establishment of a state-wide code of minimum standards for local police departments. The standards would be similar to those used by the state police and large-city departments. Basic training courses also would be required.

2. Expansion of the governor's power to remove local officials for misconduct or malfeasance in office.

3. Adoption of a uniform jury system in the 57 counties outside New York city. The system would include standard qualifications for jurors and the setting up of a commissioner of jurors in each county.

4. Enlarging of the state police force, with emphasis placed on the Bureau of Criminal Investigation. The present 1,200-member limit was raised from 900 by the 1953 legislature and approved by Dewey.

5. Authorization for trials to be shifted from one county to another at the request of the prosecuting attorney.

6. A law requiring all proceedings in matters pending before an extraordinary, special or trial term of State Supreme Court, convened in special grand jury probes, be argued and considered before the justice presiding over the special session.

7. Repeal of all provisions for the immunity of witnesses in civil actions or proceedings to which only private persons are parties.

8. Adoption of a uniform procedure to be followed in all cases where a law provides immunity for a witness who is compelled to testify.

9. Retention of the "traditional policy" under which state police refrain from moving into cities for local law enforcement or investigations, except at the request of local officials. The U. S. Senate's Kefauver Crime Committee criticized the state for this policy in its hearings in New York city in 1951.

In its first report, submitted to the governor and the legislature last Jan. 26, the commission recommended that a permanent anti-crime agency be created in the executive department. Such an agency, it said, "would have as its continuing function the investigation of the relationship between crime and government."

First Lighthouse Built

The first lighthouse was the Pharos Light, built in Alexandria, near the mouth of the Nile. Completed under Ptolomy II, about 200 B.C., it was in active use for more than 1,400 years.

Nine Persons

were piled right down on the house. Those trees must have kept the house from blowing away."

Five farms were damaged by another tornado in Clayton county in the northeastern part of the state.

No one was injured or killed when two tornadoes hit a residential district near the fairgrounds in the west central Arkansas city of Russellville. About 40 homes in the area suffered heavy roof damage.

Several small twisters hit southeastern Kansas towns early Sunday, damaging farms and summer homes. There were no casualties.

Spotters Will Be Featured on TV

Mrs. George Dewey Logan, supervisor of the Kingston post, has been notified by the White Plains filter center that the Ground Observer Corps will be featured during an hour-long television program Tuesday.

The program is the Kate Smith Hour on the National Broadcasting Company's television network from 4 to 5 p. m., May 12. In the New York area, it may be viewed on WNBT, Channel 4.

Mrs. Logan also revealed today that the local post is "badly in need" of men to serve as spotters between 2 and 6 a. m. These hours, she noted, are among the most critical for air attacks. The post has recently lost three men because they moved from the community, and others have had to be excused for illness, she pointed out. Volunteer firemen can serve, Mrs. Logan said.

The post also can use some housewives able to serve shifts from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Volunteers serve one two-hour shift per week.

Reinforcements are being rushed to Rankha to help the Burmese forces continue their drive to crush guerrilla attempts to gain control of the area.

To Aid Rehabilitation

Auckland, New Zealand, May 11 (AP)—Prime Minister Sidney Holland said today that New Zealand would contribute 96,000 pounds ($268,800) toward a program for the rehabilitation of Korea. Speaking at a luncheon on the eve of his departure for England for Queen Elizabeth's coronation, Holland said Korea must not be left open for an advance of communism. And all the rebuilding job, he added, cannot be left to the United States, which Holland said is already carrying 95 per cent of the burden in Korea.

Here are two house paint bargains . . . in extra-size pails that hold enough paint for one side of an average house.
Get the amount of paint you'll use over the week end . . . in one handy, multi-purpose, professional-type pail . . . at a price you can't afford to miss!

DEVOE Wonder-1-Coat House Paint is a premium product noted for "two coat beauty and protection with just one coat." With it you can save up to 40% on repainting costs... its long-lasting, brilliant titanium white is self-cleansing, as well as mildew and fume resistant.

DEVOE All-Weather House Paint has more "hide" built into it, than any other product of its type.
